Looking back on 1984, many reflections of the past have come alive, caught in our memory . . .

These past four years have slid on by,
Memories embedded deep in my mind.
The times I cheered the Bison to success,
The times I cried over trying my best.
I will remember the friends who helped me to grow,
Who supported me faithfully, who never let go.
I will remember the fights for what I thought was right
And never forget all those special nights.
I will leave Buffalo Grove not with regret
But with fond memories on which to reflect.

Felicia Rischall

We have spirit and we stand up for what we believe in. We live in our own corner of the world and as we grow and expand, our world grows too.

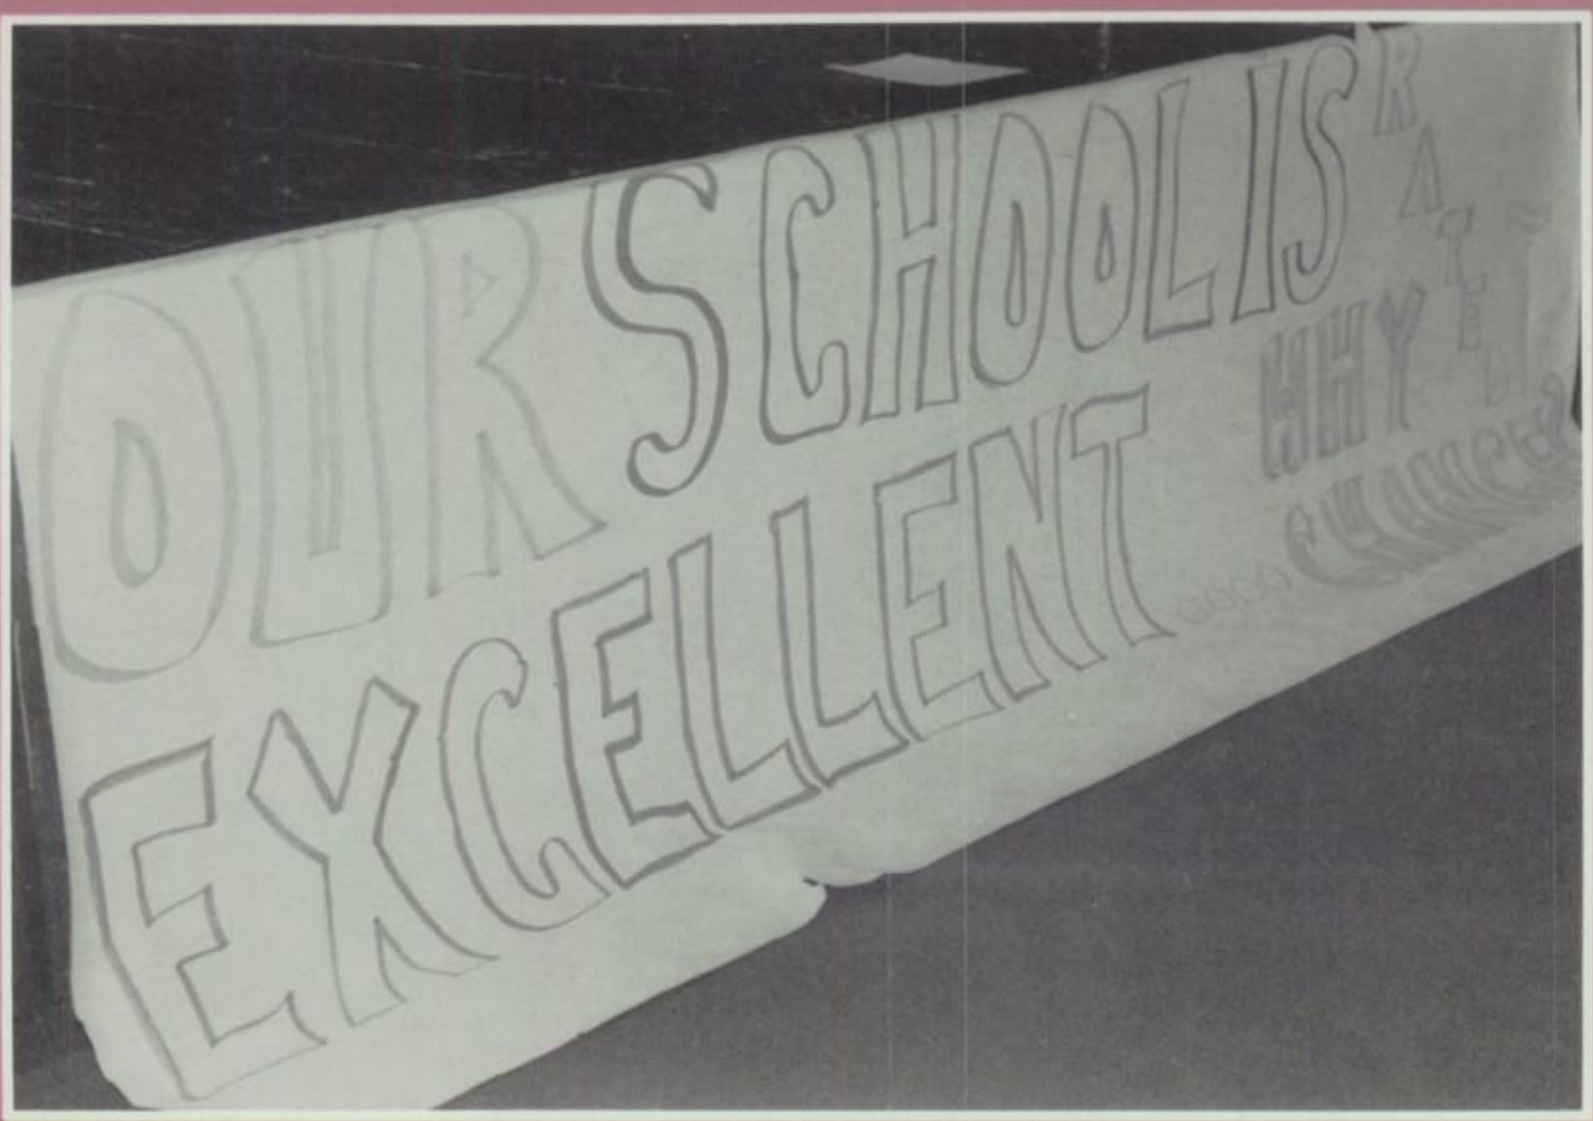

We come to this school small and meek but . . .

The students at B.G. know what an administration can do. They can make or break a school. Our administration has been making this school for eleven years, and in appreciation we dedicate our opening section to Dr. Clarence Miller, Norman Patberg, Richard Schnell, Robert Alexander, and Dr. Paul Mueller; five administrators who have done their best for our school.

... we leave with great intentions, ready and willing ...

... to risk what we are for what we can and shall become.

*For some the answer does not lie in class.
Instead it lies in sports or arts.*

We strive toward our goal and we . . .

. . . see that it is close and not beyond our grasp.

Big Wheeling plays dampen Homecoming

On October 8, the Varsity football team lost their first game, which happened to be the Homecoming game, to Wheeling 19-14.

"Nothing went wrong," Coach Blaney said. "They just made the big plays when they had to make them."

The day before the game, the annual parade was held for the students. Although the outcome of the game wasn't known, the students seemed to be prepared for a win.

There were several floats competing for the first prize of $25.00. Second and third prizes were worth $15 and $10.00.

Hero, which received first prize, came as close to the theme 'rejoice' as possible.

The parade included students driving their cars, vans, and whatever else could be decorated, behind the floats.

The students watching also got into the Homecoming spirit. Shaving cream fights were going on as the parade progressed.

Deb Corbett Homecoming Queen in 1983

Every year our school presents to the students six active senior girls to participate in our Homecoming festivities. The seniors chosen this year were Katie Zyzda, Deidre McKeen, Debbie Corbett, Bonnie Chiarelli, Kathy Egan and Genie Cesarotti.

According to tradition, the president of Student Council is the one who announces who will be the Homecoming Queen. But this time things were different.

Debbie Corbett, president of Student Council, couldn't announce the Queen and her court for a simple reason . . . she was one of the nominees. Instead, junior Frank Piciullo took the honor.

A rumor circulated that Piciullo would hint who would be the Queen. It was rumored that he would raise his right hand if Corbett did not win.

Coronation began and Piciullo started his speech . . . up went his hand . . . some students sighed, others were quiet.

Piciullo continued . . . "and the winner is . . . Debbie Corbett!" He fooled the students who had heard the rumor.

Filled with delight, Corbett was crowned by 1982's queen, Sue Pils. After the crowning, Corbett proceeded, her court following, down the aisle into school history.

Fellow students enjoy evening of music and dance

Although the Varsity team lost the Homecoming game to Wheeling, the dance that night wasn't a loss at all.

There were couples from each year dancing to the music performed by the guest band "Chariot."

The theme song, 'Never Gonna Let You Go,' picked by the cheerleaders, was in all ways, the perfect theme. The couples present were so anxious to dance, they didn't give Queen Debbie Corbett, her court and their dates a chance to dance to the theme song. Usually, or as tradition states, couples are supposed to save the beginning of the theme song for the Queen and court, and gradually join in during the middle. But several couples didn't wait, and the tradition was broken.

The preparations took the cheerleaders from 2:30 p.m. until 9:15 p.m. the day before. We had a fun time doing it; it really was a blast," sophomore cheerleader Michelle Felton said.

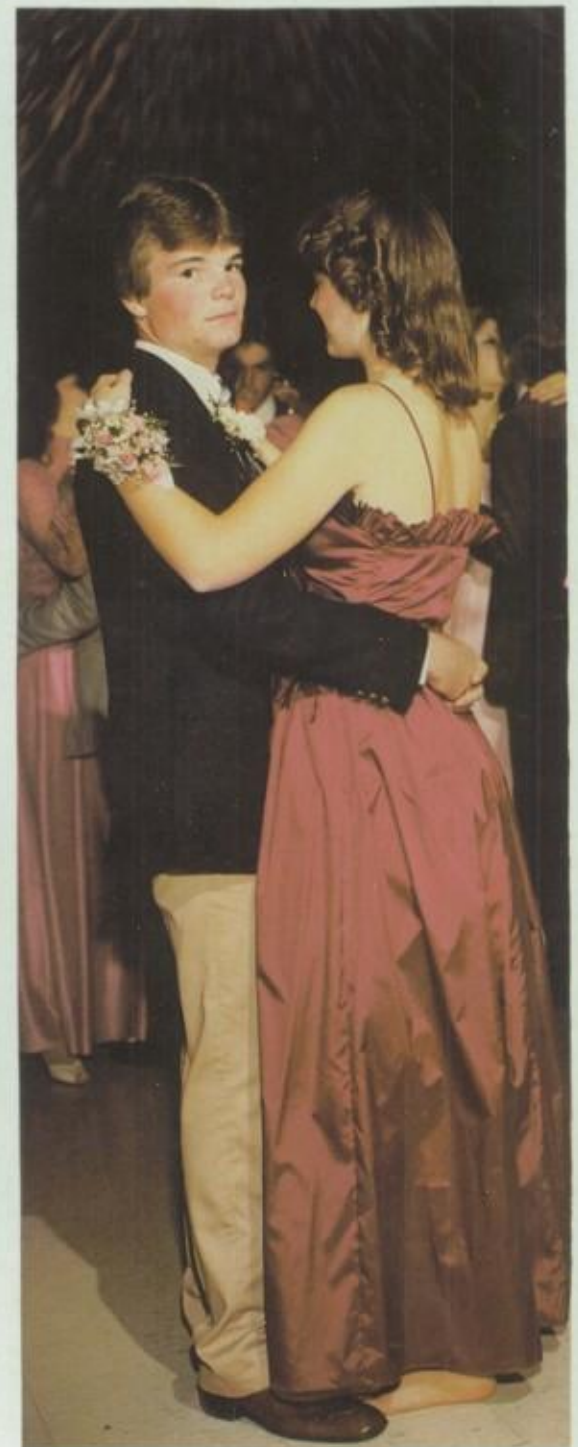

"The dance really was a great time. I really had a lot of fun with my date and all my friends. I think it was one of the best dances ever," one junior stated.

Homecoming week a blur of activities

Special activities and dress-up days made the 1984 Homecoming week memorable and exciting.

Students promoted their favorite schools by wearing university sweatshirts on College t-shirt day.

Wearing clothes inside out and backwards was the theme for Tuesday, while army fatigues were the fashion on Wednesday.

Identification of our friends was a little more difficult on Thursday during Opposite Sex day. Friday completed the fun week with the traditional Blue and Orange day.

Choppers lift spirits during Powder Puff

Unsuspecting powder puff football players and fans received more than they bargained for when they attended the game on October 8.

Off in the distance, two helicopters, bursting with blue and orange, were attracting many confused glances from the crowd below.

After landing on the field, eight screaming, cartwheeling senior cheerleaders exited from the helicopters and were soon engulfed by the crowd.

The big surprise, dreamed up by Jeff Guzak and Doug Hamm, cost seven hundred dollars, and was paid for by the cheerleaders. Team members later contributed one hundred and fifteen dollars.

After many cheers by the seniors and juniors, the game finally continued. Girls from both teams played well, although a touchdown by Michelle Casella put the seniors ahead. After running for the extra points, the final score was raised to seniors-8, juniors-0.

Senior class president Sue Wisbey concluded, "We had a good time playing. We were all excited to win after we had worked so hard. The senior cheerleaders made it all worthwhile."

Mixers prove to be popular with students

At one time, "mixer" meant the olden days. Students would hear their parents talk of attending them when they were younger. But this year the students have brought back that golden oldie.

It all started when the student council decided to set up an informal dance where the students could go with their friends. Most of the people were dressed in combinations of jeans and sweaters, mini-skirts, parachutes, and camouflage pants.

"Most of the dances were fun," said sophomore Sue Wroblewski, "but one problem was the dance floor was always crowded." Another sophomore said, "It wasn't any fun if you weren't asked to dance, but most of the mixers didn't turn out like that." Indeed, they had their downs but they also had their ups. Sophomore Candi Riehle said, "Being an informal dance, it made it a lot of fun and you could be with your friends." A freshman, Anne Welch, said, "You have to make the dances fun!"

"The Long Time Jerks" played at one of the mixers. It consisted of students Bob Wagner, Bill Stephens, Rich Sobchinsky and Jim Haboush. They got everyone into the mood for dancing. Sophomore Rick Rischall said, "They played a lot of upbeat music and they kept everyone dancing."

Winterball: a time for all to remember

Winterball 1984: what a time to remember. The ball was held Saturday, February 11, from 7:00 to 11:00 in the cafeteria.

The Senior class, led by president Sue Wisbey, spent seven hours decorating.

One of the highlights had to be when Doug Hamm and Kelly Holub were crowned king and queen. "The two of them are great. They deserved the honor," stated a senior.

"The band Private Eye was good, but they disappointed a lot of people by not playing the theme song, "My Love," said senior board member Brenda Eli.

Tami Novausad, sophomore, said, "The dance was great, fantastic! I'll remember it always."

Taking a break, Jim Patrician and Dan Loftus "chow down" on pizza.

An evening of 'Heaven' for couples

Buffalo Grove High School students were in heaven on March 17, 1984. Sponsored by the sophomore class, Turn-a-Bout's theme was "Heaven" and lasted from 7:30 until 10:30.

Due to icy weather conditions, the band "On Stage" spent the majority of their evening in a ditch off a main highway. They did not arrive at the dance until almost 10:00 p.m.

Although some couples were upset about the band's delay, most everyone had a good time. The jukebox provided the music and couples entertained themselves by playing such games as Duck-Duck-Goose. One senior summed up the night by saying, "It certainly was a different dance-fun, but definitely different!"

Guzak, Hrisko reign over 1984 Prom

The class of 1985 held Prom 1984 on Friday evening, June 1, from 6:30 to 11:30 p.m. at the Hyatt Regency woodfield. For the seventh consecutive year, the band Synod performed a variety of music from Chicago to Michael Jackson.

Tickets cost 53.00. The price included a six course chicken dinner, refreshments and a wine glass and beer mug for each couple.

Prom court members were Kim Hrisko, Donna Harnisch, Lisa Humbert, Sue Johnson, Cathy Muraca, Jeff Guzak, Chris Cobe, Dave Greenbaum, Mark Morris, and Mike Rader.

The 1984 Prom King Jeff Guzak and his queen Kim Hrisko seemed to sparkle all evening. The Junior Princess and Prince were Mindy Kormelink and Dan O'Malley.

The Juniors wrote a poem about prom, "a memory in common with the class of '81."

Another year goes passing by Another dance is here
To some this brings a joyous smile
To others, brings a tear.
For four years you have tread a path
From dawn to setting sun
But now the path gets steeper
And the climb has just begun.
We're very glad to know you
We'll miss you when you're gone
And to the class of '84
We dedicate our Prom.

1984: A year of change and courage

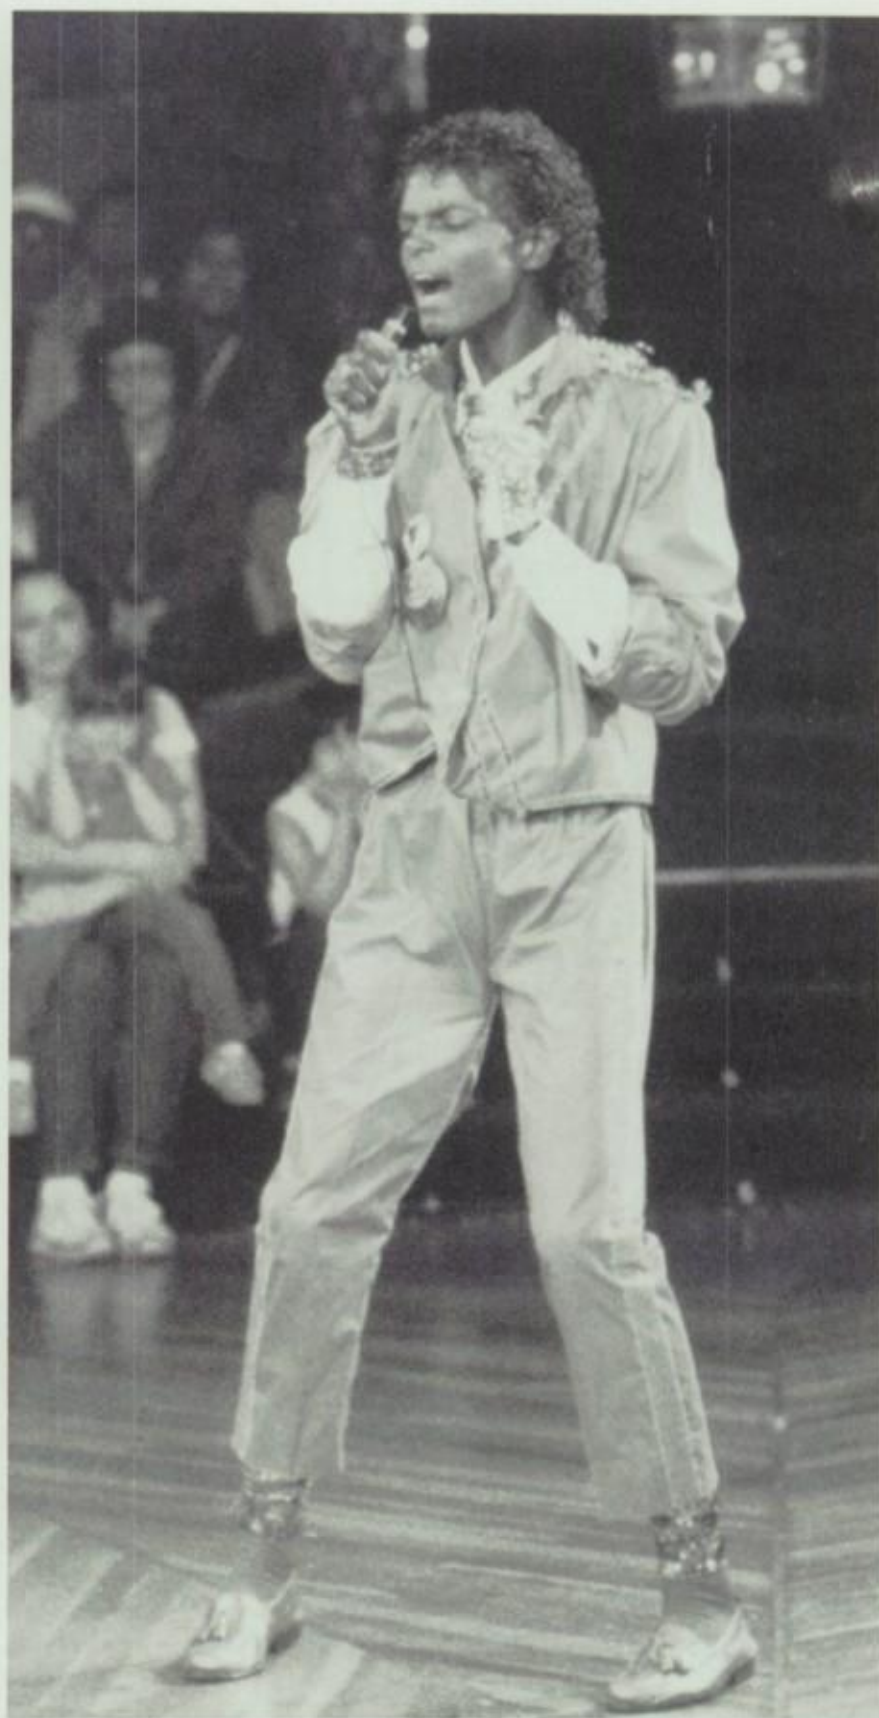

From the United States' involvement in Lebanon to Micheal Jackson look alike, the 1984 year was definitely one to remember.

The Lebanon conflict seemed to have no solution. To keep peace in Lebanon, President Reagan was authorized by Congress to keep the U.S. Marines in Lebanon until March 1985. After 241 U.S. Marines were killed at Beirut Headquarters, the United States pulled the rest of the Marines out of the country.

The latest fad in 1984 seemed to be break-dancing. Micheal Jackson's album "Thriller" became the best selling album of all time. The presidential campaign also began in 1984. Jesse Jackson, Gary Hart, and Walter Mondale ran for the chance to be the next Democratic nominee.

Personal tragedy also marked the year. The abduction of children became a common subject for discussion after the airing of the television drama "Adam." As a result of the show, many missing children were reunited with their parents after viewers recognized them from pictures broadcast at the end of the program.

Arts unlimited showcases local artists

Arts Unlimited started off at Buffalo Grove with a luncheon given by the English/Fine Arts department for all of the faculty. The Strolling Strings performed while the faculty ate.

Some other musical groups that performed in Arts Unlimited were the Jazz bands — I and II, a jazz band combo, the B.G. band, the Expressions, the orchestra and the chorus.

Some of the highlights of Arts Unlimited were two magic shows: "Illusion or Reality" by Jeff Loeser and "The Fantasy of Magic" by Mark Hawkins and Rick Vrenios. Another special event that took place was the rock concert by The Crowd. The four members played a variety of songs including some old songs and original music.

During Arts Unlimited many interesting people visited Buffalo Grove. The Free Shakespeare Company performed for all eight schools in the district, along with the Chicago Chamber Brass. The African Dance Company also performed for all the dance classes.

For most students, Arts Unlimited was a way of showing fellow students what talent they have. Outsiders were also welcome.

Many other talented people were involved in Arts Unlimited. Creative Writing, photography, art, dance, drama and speech were seen throughout the four week period.

Cast discovers that blindness isn't disability

"The play made a lot of my convictions stronger about learning disabilities," said Carol Minarik, who played Anne Sullivan in William Gibson's, "The Miracle Worker." "My favorite line was, 'I treat her like a seeing child, because I expect her to be' because I believe that people only live up to what you expect them to be."

John Marquette said that by the end of the play he noticed a more positive attitude towards the deaf and blind by the cast, especially some of the younger members. The play featured Carol Minarik and Dawn Dubelbeis. It was directed by John Marquette, and the stage was designed by Lee Fialik.

The Miracle Worker is the story of a young girl, Helen Keller, who is both blind and deaf. She is dirty and uncivilized, until, with the help of a special teacher, she is taught to communicate with sign language. Although her teacher, Anne Sullivan, was not very welcome when she entered the Keller home and disrupted it, she ignored all of Helen's family and followed her own heart. Anne soon realized that because Helen's family spoiled her when she had her temper tantrums, Helen would never learn anything. So, with the help of Mrs. Keller, she got Col. Keller to consent to letting her have the servant quarters out back. After two weeks, she cleaned Helen up and taught her to sew, but she still hadn't taught her to communicate. When Helen went home she went back to her old ways of throwing temper tantrums. But eventually some of the two weeks' worth of teaching did sink in ... she knew the symbol for "water."

'Importance of Being Ernest' delights crowd

Many students were involved in the production of the winter play "The Importance of Being Ernest."

James O'Neill, the director, picked the actors and actresses at tryouts where the students were asked to read lines with an English accent.

These students were Marie Stucki, '85; Frank Picullo, '85; Gene Paulauskas, '85; Don Ellis, '85; Laura Preston, '85; Tom Intrieri, '86; Mary Lewis, '87; Jim Photopoulos, '84; Carol Minarik, '84; and Dawn Kramer, '84.

Practices were held every day until 5 p.m. "During the practices we all became pretty good friends and the guys really joked around a lot. Mr. O'Neill laughed with us, but when he got serious, he was tough," Marie Stucki, '85, stated.

The costumes for the performances were designed and created by Barbara Place, while the scenery was designed by Lee Fialik.

First year of variety show great success

Students at BG are talented. It's been proven time and time again. So why hasn't there been a variety show before this past year? No one was quite sure, but there will definitely be one again next year. "Reactions were great. Administration, teachers, students, and parents enjoyed it and have indicated they want to have it again next year," said Mr. McNitt, director of the show.

McNitt and his assistant, Joann Armstrong, were "really easy going and very special," said junior Valerie Schultz, who performed a soft shoe dance.

McKnitt said the show was a success "because kids were able to demonstrate, to perform and get recognition."

The two magic shows performed by Mark Hawkins and Jeff Loeser were given a lot of attention. Both of the performers were asked to give other shows. They also performed in Arts Unlimited.

Some students were nervous about performing in front of their peers, but most of them had a lot of fun. Junior Brian Lee, who performed with Jim Dier in a midget skit, said, "The only thing that was showing were my arms but I was still nervous, but we had a blast anyway."

"King and I" delights large audiences

Fans of musical theater had to wait until spring for Buffalo Grove's 1984 production, "The King and I."

Previously, the musical had been held in late winter. Scheduling problems for the theater led to the change.

The story takes place in Siam when the king (Jim Photopolus) invites an English school-teacher (Aimee Draftz) to teach the royal children. The story centers on the conflict of values between the king and Anna, the schoolteacher, as well as their growing mutual respect.

Directing the play were John Marquette and Linda Anderson. "Because there were qualified people and it was only fair to give experience to all those qualified, two of the lead parts were shared," said Anderson. Tuptin, the princess from Burma, was played by Kristen Rieck and Jeanne Jagusch. The king's head wife, Lady Thiang, was played by Alice Brockway and Theresa Kelly. "The doubles learned from each other and got along well," said Anderson.

Other casting include Lun Tha, Tuptim's lover, played by Frank Piciullo; Louis, Anna's son, played by Steve Connors; and Lady Thiang's son, who was played by Joe Buggy. There was a total of 22 children involved. Anderson was very proud of the kids and enjoyed working with them.

Miller bids fond farewell to grads and school

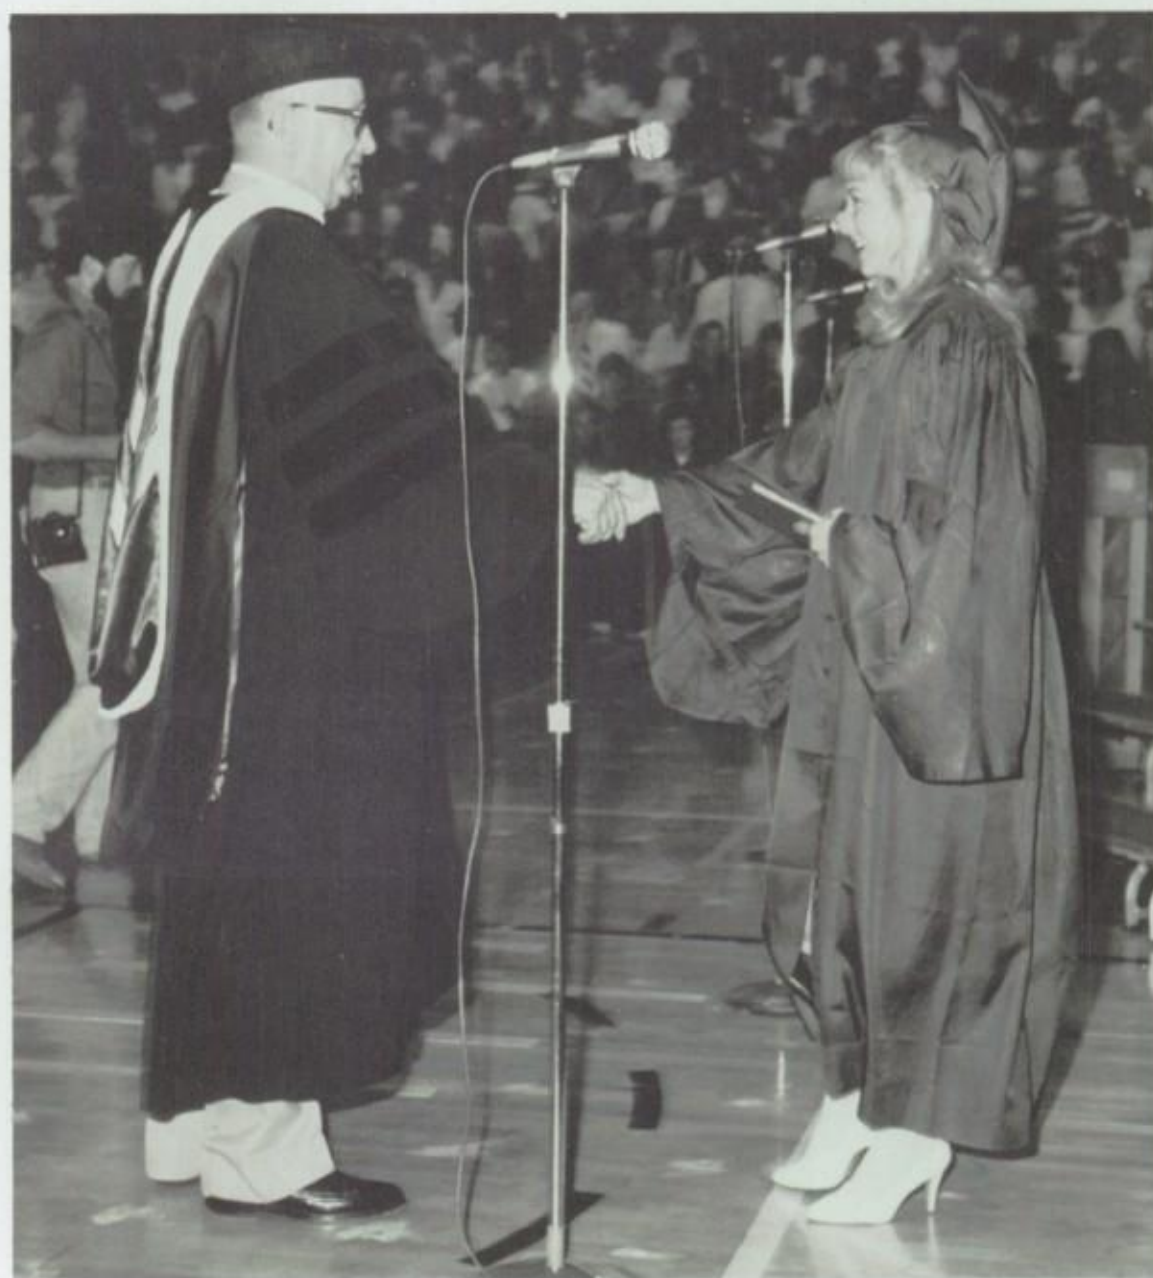

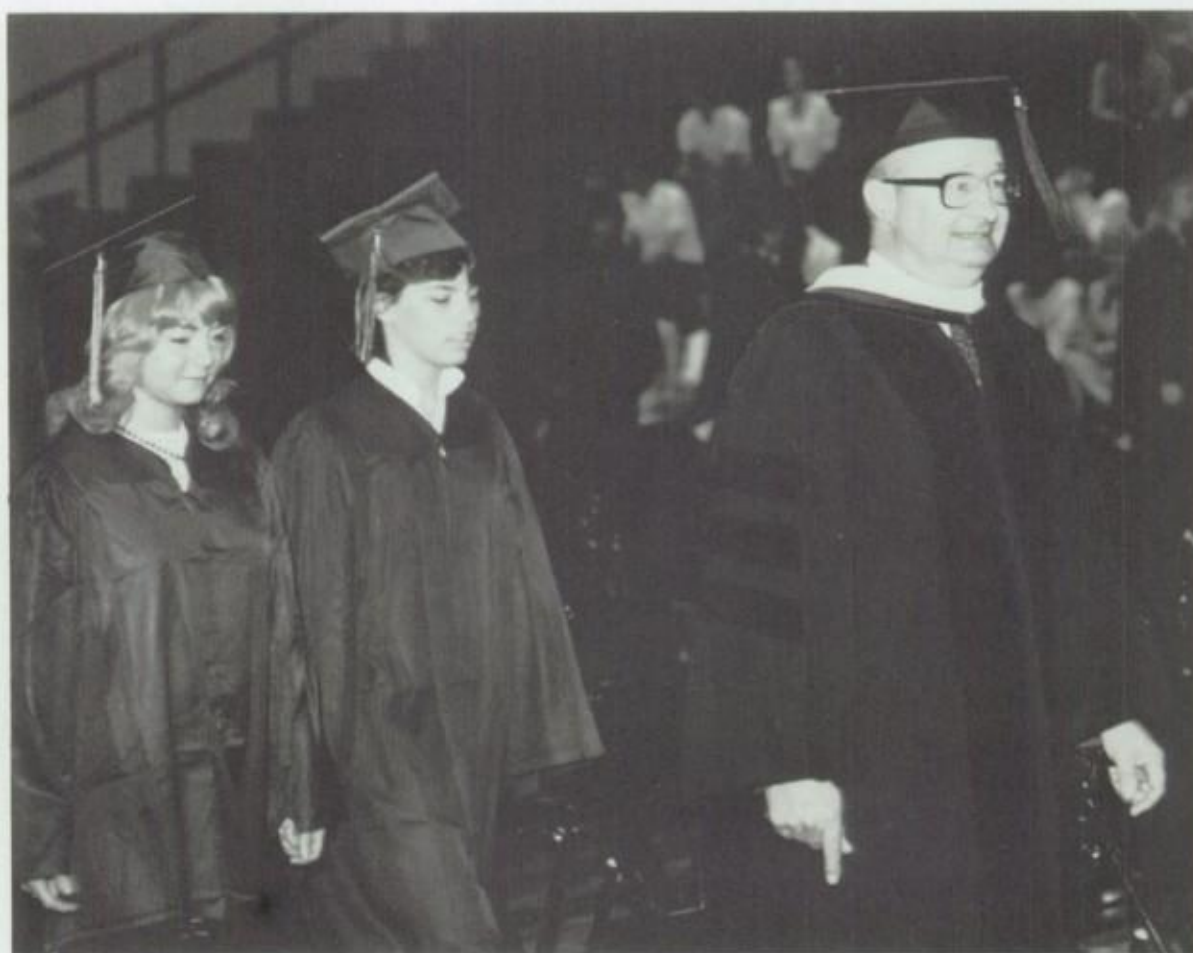

After twelve long and frustrating years, 540 graduates received their final rewards on the evening of Monday, June 4. Genie Cesarotti, class secretary, introduced the program, and then turned the podium over to soloist Alice Brockway, who sang the National Anthem. Treasurer of the Class of 1984, Barb Shoemaker, welcomed friends and family, and Vice-President Kim Hrisko gave the invocation.

Directed by Linda Anderson, Concert Choir sang "The Buffalo Grove High School Alma Mater," and the senior class song, "How Do We Say Good-Bye." Graduate Mike David performed his original and emotional composition, "Leaving the Good Times Behind," resulting in a standing ovation.

Seniors Carol Minarik and Chris Nance were chosen as speakers. Minarik's speech dealt with people rushing through their lives, while Nance focused on the sadness of saying goodbye.

Following remarks by class President Sue Wisbey, Dr. Clarence Miller, dressed in an honorary cap and gown, introduced the class of 1984. Miller expressed his thanks and a fond farewell to the class which held a special place in his heart.

As the tenth annual commencement drew to a close, tears from both happiness and sadness painted the faces of the graduates. "I feel like I'm stuck between gears," commented Dawn Romano. "On one hand, I'm happy to finally get out of here. But on the other hand, I'm really going to miss everyone. It's a pretty scary feeling!"

My First Real Love

Dearest Chocolate Covered Raisin,
You appeal so much to me:
With your tiny chocolate covered body,
so smooth, but yet so gentle.
And what's that perfume you have on?
You smell so sweet and chocolatey.
And as I pick you up-
You're so soft and squishy
That's just how I like you.
After all that we've been through,
I hate to have to do this,
but -----
Mmmm!
You taste so delectably good.
You're so sweet.
Sorry about that darling.

-Alan Kahn

A Chance

You have no feelings for us
We work only as you want us to.
You make us pay what you want us to.
Laughter at our children
But some cry cause we hurt.
After all, We aren't people
-We are objects
No respect comes to us
Give us a chance to be people
Respect-what is it.

Our children can't play no more
Living crowded ain't easy.
Hardly anyone has got a job.
What happened to our chance?
Was it blown away in the wind?
Or did you just forget
Thank you maam-yes sir
You are all bad in our eyes.

-Emily Begel

The Blaze

Out of the darkness came an ear piercing sound.
From the calm a crackling
noise,
Heard from miles away.
And in the night an orange,
glowing haze rises from the floor of the forest.
BANG!
A tree hits the burnt ground.
The raging beast halts for no one,
Until finally a vast blue-green body engulfs the mass.
Sizzling, all is calm
For the great danger has passed and though not much has survived the slaughter
Those that have shall grow
Until once again
Out of the darkness comes an ear piercing sound.

Emotions of the River

The murky water rages with hidden anger it spares the lives of many.
While some parry in the midst of its rage
Others live only to challenge her again.
Crashing.
Smashing against the rocks
Pounding
roaring the river ever beckons twirling twisting the water ever churning powerful yet timid, the river always changes.

Excuse me, little boy, now don't be afraid
'Cause if you want to make a deal you've got one made.
We've been looking at your records, been looking at your files
And we think we have a job for you, we think we'll make you smile.
Because you'll get a chance to serve America, our great nation,
We'll teach you different skills with army education.
I've talked to others from your school and they think the same
They'll all be coming to my office, both will sign their names.
Why don't you just come with them and you'll be one of the crowd
Everyone's doing it now-a-days, everyone that we allow.
Not everyone has the Qualifications that you have to be a good soldier
And you know we couldn't let everyone in so we can't take the ones who are bolder.
Well, can we sign you up now for the two year or four
Or if you'd like a career of it we can sign you up for more.
'Cause once I've got your name down here, now my job is through,
But there's a four year sentence in the U.S. army waiting just for you!

Black Paint

The dove cries
From his imprisonment.
They have caged him.

His mournful pleas
Echo
In their hearts.
For he is their youth,
And they know
They must restrict him
In order that he may
Recognize pain.
But,
He does not belong to them.

The ratty, unsettled bristles of that paintbrush
Have been smothered, soaked, and drowned in black
Paint that is falling, oozing in gobs onto my leg
And invades slyly, snakily
The twisted thread of my faded, shattered jeans
And eventually touches my skin
Making it wet.
An uncomfortable, disturbing intrusion
Leaving a dramatic, blackened spot
Like a damaging scar.

-Sharon Nagel

Sunrise, Sunset

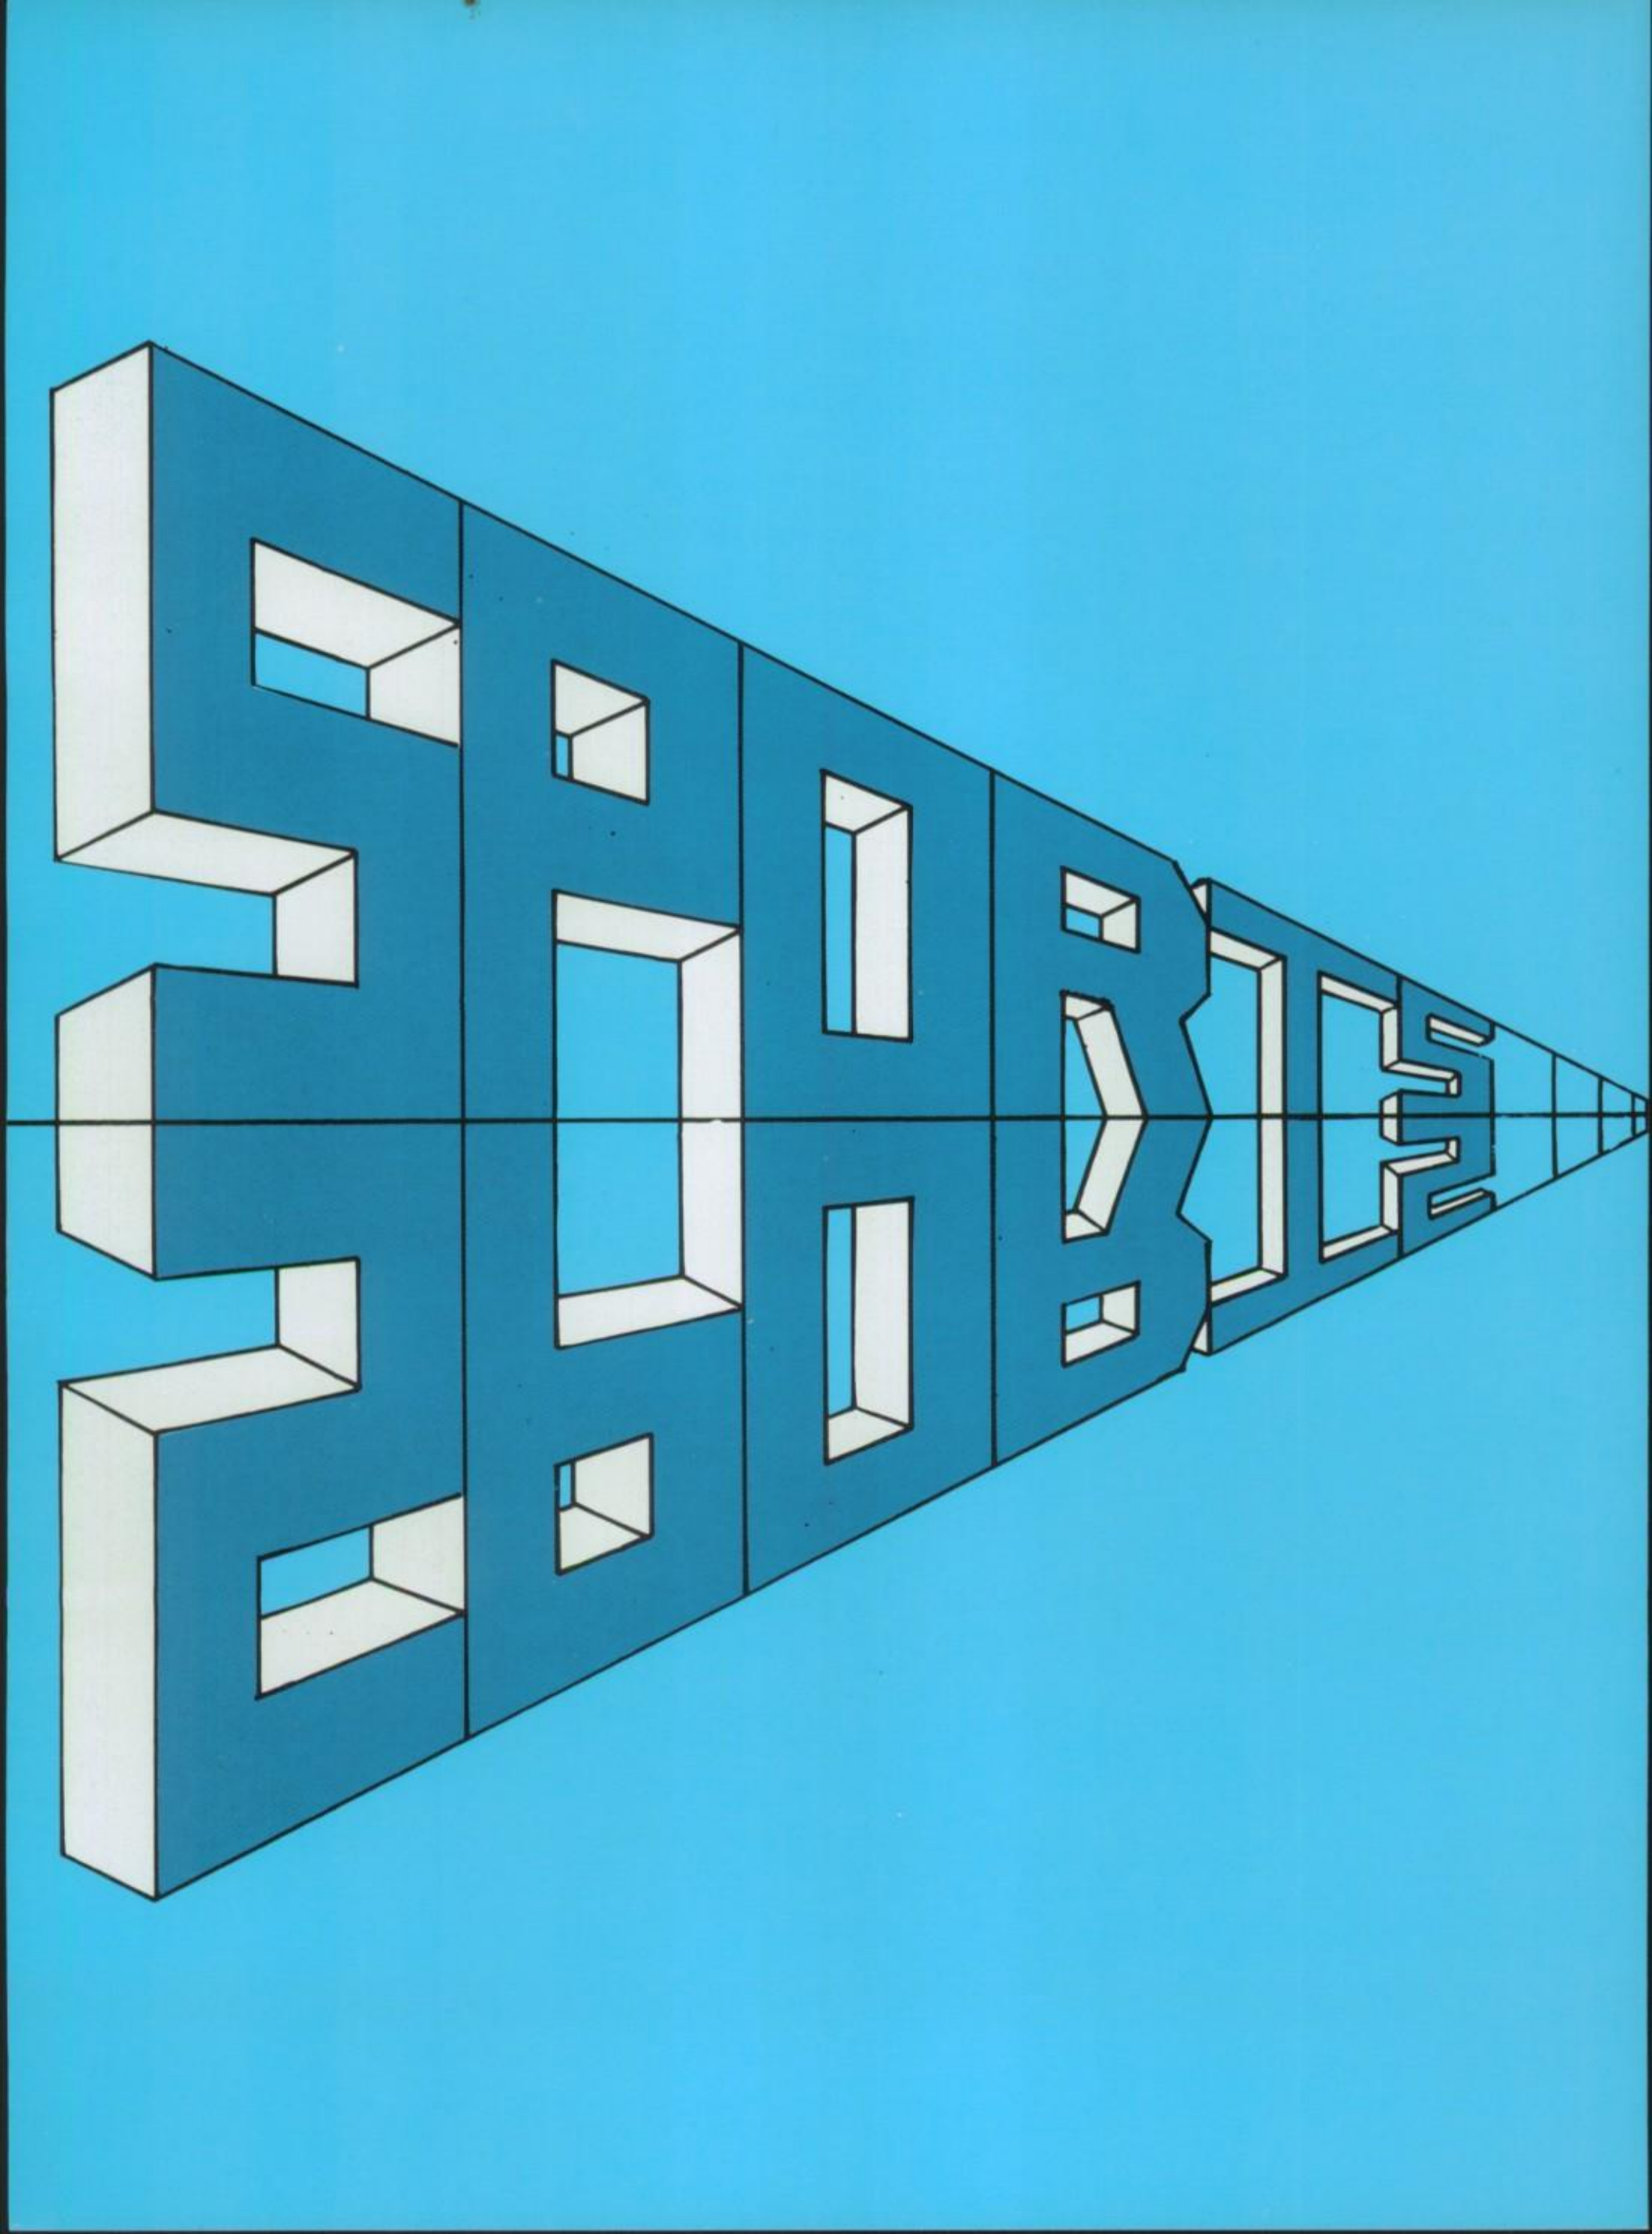

I see the sun climb up the sky,
and push the clouds away,
He holds his flaming head up high,
to rise and greet the day.

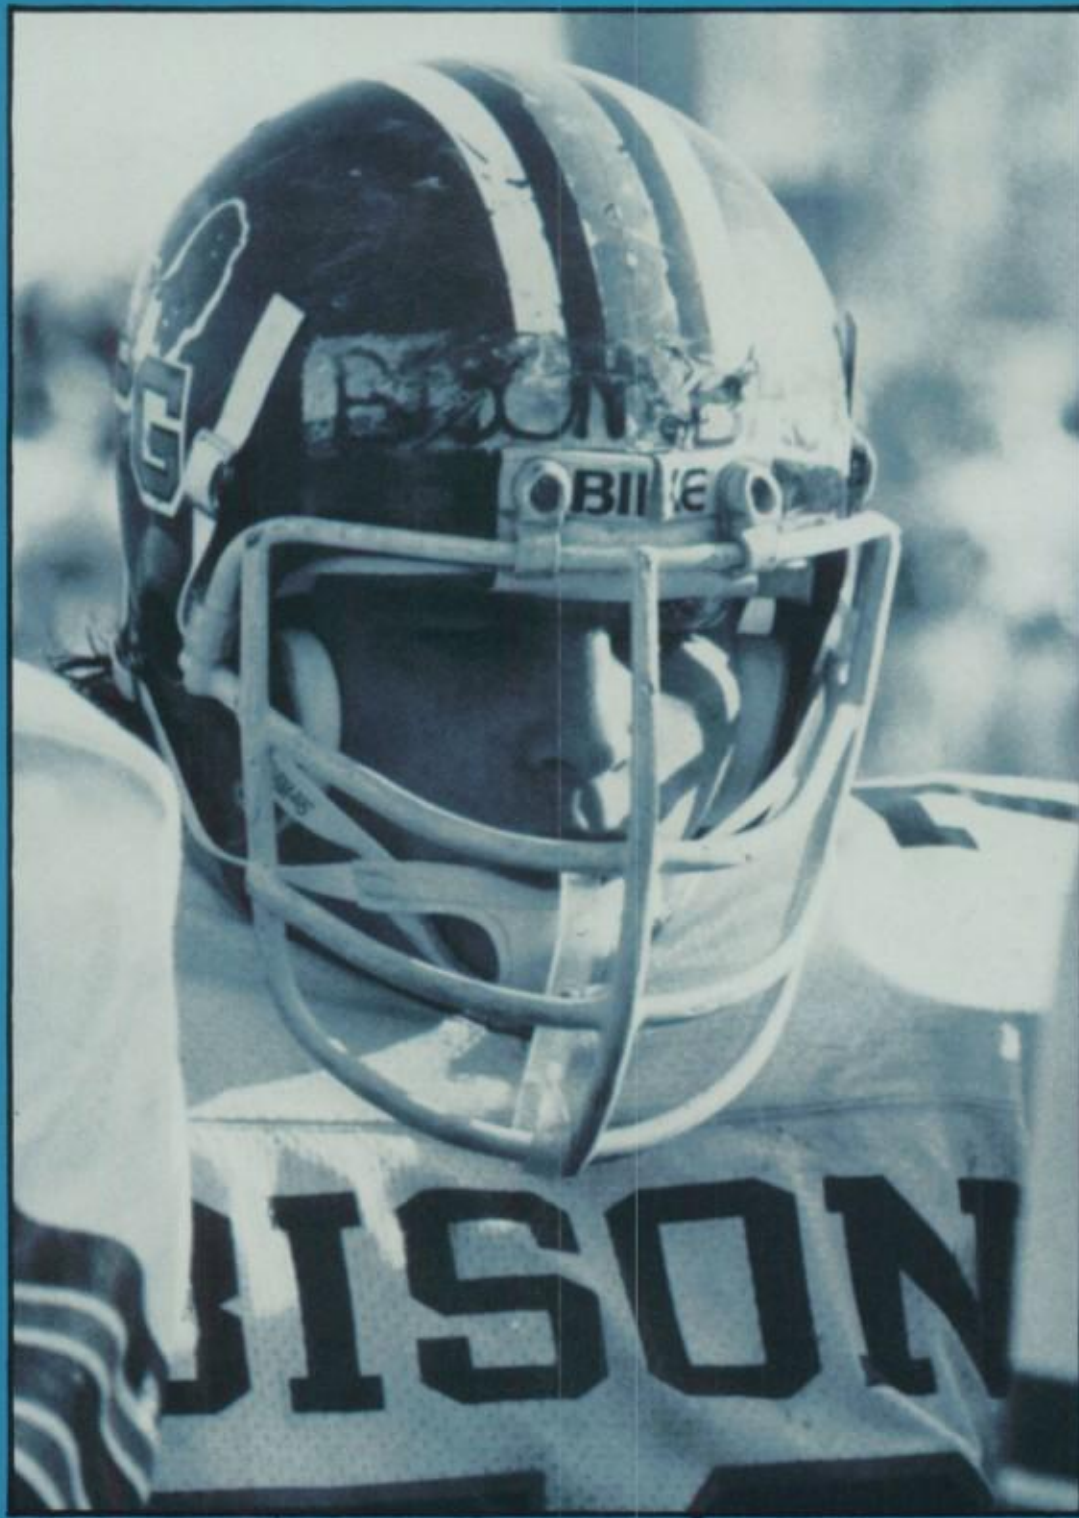

Cushioned by soft clouds is his head,
His feet massaged by trees
He turns the sky to gold and red,
and sets to drink the seas.

-Mike Stailey

His soul stares
In despair
As It sits outside
On the windowsill.
It is blessed with
Unlimited freedom,
But is bound by
Its master's bars.
So, now, patiently
It must wait
For time
To turn the key
That will unlock Its bond.
And the dove will Break free,
And will meet his soul
In flight.

The Varsity football team finished third in the Mid Suburban North division with an overall record of six wins and three losses. The team won their first four games and was ranked number one in the Chicago Tribune Prep Football Poll.

Their toughest loss came in the Homecoming game against Wheeling. The Bison lost to the Wildcats for the first time in the eleven year history of Buffalo Grove. "I hate to lose any game," said coach Grant Blaney; "It (the loss to Wheeling) was depressing."

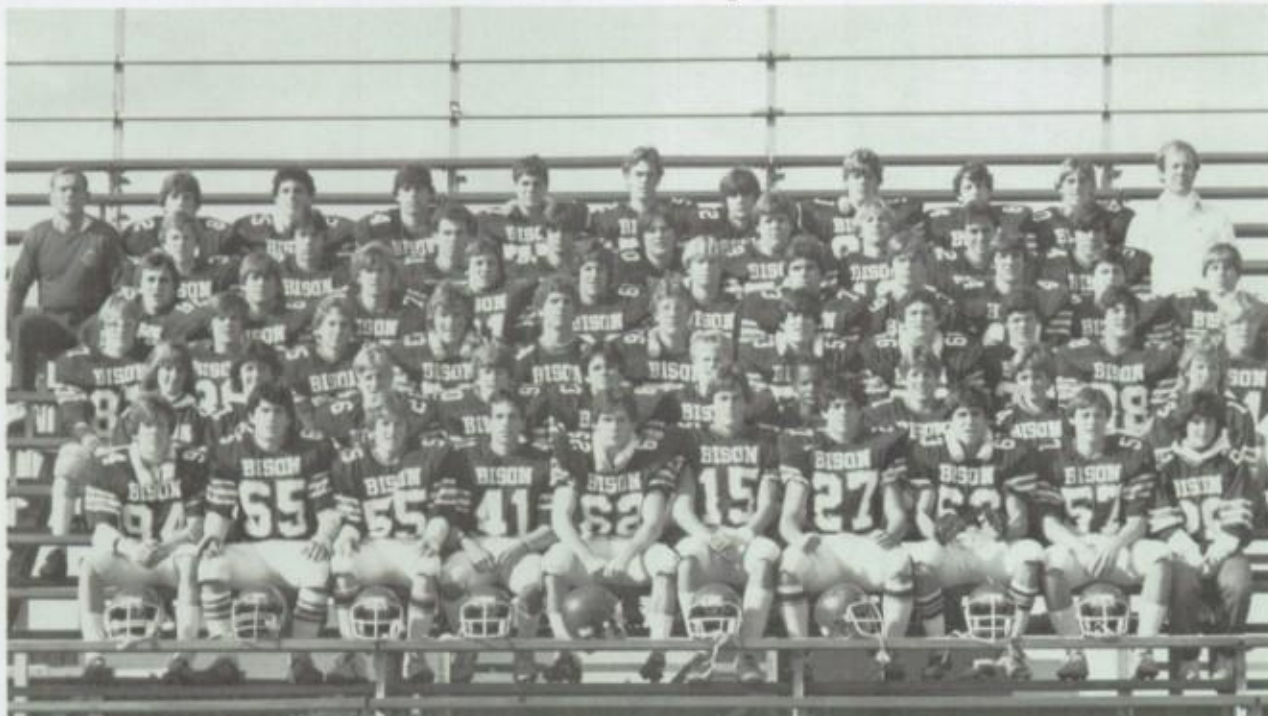

The Bison won two of their last four games. The team gave the fans something to cheer about in their final game against Barrington. The Bison beat the Broncos 7-0 in overtime. Enthusiastic fans and teammates carried the games' standout, David Marinkovich, off the field after the victory over number one ranked Barrington. "On any given day, any high school senior team can beat another," commented senior John Cerwin.

Chris Cobe and John Cerwin received All-Conference honors, Steve Vinci earned All-Conference and All-Paddock Area, and David Marinkovich was named All-Conference, All-Paddock Area, and All-Chicago Area. "I was surprised because I don't think I did that well this season," said senior David Marinkovich. "I'm happy, though."

Their determination and great desire to win led the 1983 sophomore football team to a very successful year, ending the season with an overall record of 9-1. As freshman they finished first in conference, and moving on to sophomores they kept up that pace again, placing first in their division.

Towards the middle of the season they suffered a hard loss to Hoffman Estates, with a final score of 6-0. According to Coach Wayne Selvig, "This was due to over confidence and players not playing to their fullest." According to Selvig, the better players included Tim Drevline, Sam Merriott, Jordy Tessler, Ron Philips, Andy Hubert, Dave Weiner.

The freshman A football team didn't have as good of a record as last year, but they still finished with a winning 5-2 record. "The team played very hard and the games were all very close," said Richard Schnell. The standouts according to Schnell were Mark Scheedy, Pat Milz, and Jim Wagner on offense. On the defensive side, Dave Golnick and Chris Rudolf were very reliable. "I feel that the boys all worked very hard and have a good potential for a good varsity team," said Schnell.

The freshman B team also had a winning record of 3-3-2. Coach Tom Wiedemann said that the whole team worked hard, and many of them have potential to make a strong varsity team. Coach Wiedemann was very proud of his offense this year, mainly because of the two running backs, Brad Gershman and Matt Hemstreet, who both averaged over ten yards a carry. On the offensive line Jud Sirott was outstanding. The freshman B team also had a very good defensive team with linebacker Mike Kay, Steve Simon on tackle, and Tom Anderson at defensive back.

"They were a super group of kids and we had a good season," commented varsity golf coach Fred Van Iten. The golf season ended with a 14-7 record.

Senior Mike Jonas was the key player of the golf team. As a freshman, Jonas was a close second to the conference champion. During his sophomore year he was praised as best player by the Bison team and he had the lowest dual meet average of 41. Junior year Jonas qualified to go downstate and finished eleventh with final rounds of 79 and 76-155. Of his senior year, Jonas said that he expected more of himself and the rest of the team. I came off a good junior year and summer, but only played fairly my last year," he noted. Commenting about the entire varsity team, Jonas said, "I thought we played a lot better than we expected when we started out. I guess one of our highlights of the season was our near victory against top ranked Fremd." Jonas' senior average was a 38. His best nine hole score was a 35. Jonas was honored with first place in districts and first place in sectionals, along with eleventh in state.

Senior Todd Rhodes had the second best average score of 40. Kent Mathis, senior, had an average of 44. Mike Kilar, also a senior, had an average of 43. Sophomores Paige Peterson and Rich Lorenz had individual averages of 43 for their seasons. Rhodes placed eleventh in regionals with a score of 78 in an eighteen hole tournament. Peterson finished fifth at the Fenton Invitational with an eighteen hole score of 77. Captain Mike Jonas took third place at the Chevy Chase Invitational with a score of 75. Seventy-seven gave him tenth place at the Lake Park Invite, and he also received tenth place in the eighteen hole conference meet.

Team effort was one of the soccer team's greatest attributes this year. The varsity team ended their season with a record of 3-16-1, and finished last in the MSL North.

The most valuable player was Phil Bar-eck, who led the team with 149 goalie saves. The captains were Joe Randazzo, Jeff Dum-rauf, and Dave Ball.

The sophomore team finished their sea-son with a record of 6-5-7. The captains were Mark Zickert and Tim Thompson, who started every game. Rob Gilland led the team in both goals scored and assists. Dave Durlacher tied him with five assists. Coach Kalivoda said, "Our record doesn't show what good potential we had."

The freshmen ended their season without a loss, 9-0-3. Neil Treliving led the team in goals scored and shots. Matt Krenger led the team in assists. Coach DeRosa said, "The spirit was high. It was a good group and lots of fun. It was very rewarding."

"Our conference is the toughest in the state," said Coach Koralik. Even though the boys' cross country team's in-conference meets lacked high scores, Koralik maintained that the scores for non-conference meets improved tremendously. The girls' cross country teams did very well, and Jill Templer didn't impair her team's success any by qualifying for the state finals.

The most valuable players of the girls' cross country team were Jill Templer and Julie Finnegan. Jill is the second runner in cross country history to go to the state finals. Tricia Birkner headed the team as captain. The girls' junior varsity finished the season with a 10-2 record. The girls' varsity didn't do as well with 7 wins and 5 losses.

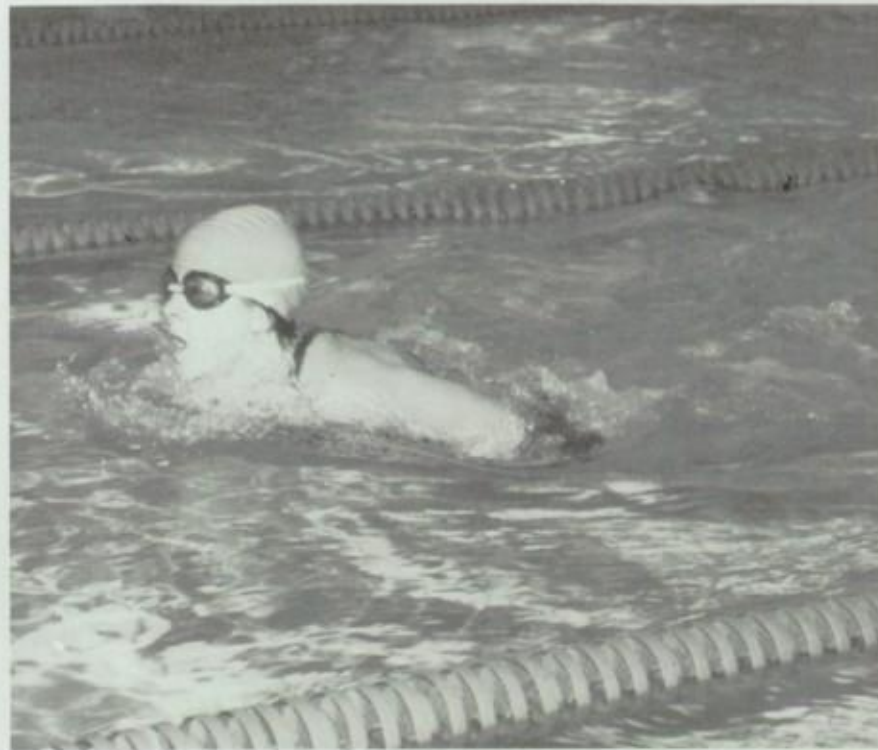

On the boys' side, Darrin Koerner and Frank Walaitis were the team captains. The boys' varsity finished the season with 2 wins and 9 losses. The boys' freshmen/sophomore team did a little better; they won 5 and lost 6.

Koralik felt the boys did not do well because they had other commitments, and according to Koralik, "We need the athlete who is dedicated to running year round."

"Despite major illness and injury, the girls' swimming season has been one of the most enthusiastic varsity and junior varsity squads ever," said coach Rick Kerwin. They swam to a tough twelfth place finish at the varsity conference meet with a score of twenty five points. The junior varsity squad was paced by sophomore Keri Fitzpatrick, who led the team to a tenth place finish at the junior varsity meet. Although she swam most of the season at the junior varsity level, Keri was able to earn a varsity letter.

Many injuries plagued the girl swimmers. Sophomore Cindy Peterson couldn't finish the season due to knee surgery, sophomore Sheryl Jaffee had mono throughout the season, and junior Sue Peterson couldn't finish the season due to heart trouble. The loss of key swimmers was a real disappointment to the team. There were also many cases of conjunctivitis and swimmer's ear throughout the season.

The varsity squad consisted mostly of sophomores. Sophomore Kirsten Olsen was the top point scorer in dual meets. There was one freshman on the varsity squad, Diane Arnolde, who was the third leading point scorer in dual meets. In spite of the illnesses, the varsity squad went on to break the 400 freestyle relay record with a time of 4:02.5. The relay consisted of Kim Jurczak, Diane Arnolde, Liz Gourdie, and Kirsten Olsen. The most improved swimmer on the varsity level was sophomore Jennifer Berlini, who consistently dropped her times throughout the season.

"Co-captains senior foreign exchange student Liz Gourdie and junior Elizebeth Denoma, always were a great encouragement and had a positive attitude no matter how rough things looked," said Kerwin.

The volleyball team had a successful year considering all but three of the girls were novices. The team won fourth place in the highly competitive state tournament. Von Gerichten said, "I hope that the girls, with a little more experience, can achieve at least a 20 win-10 loss record next year." Furthermore, Gerichten added, "With the experience they are getting now, I am confident they can achieve the goals we have set."

The volleyball team played in a summer league to get more competition. Paula Von Gerichten said, "I think the girls need this in order to get better." Also, the girls got more practice time by playing in the Varsity Open Program, sponsored by the American Volleyball Association, which played twice a week.

The 1983 Girls' Gymnastics team ended their season with an overall dual record of 6-9. According to coach Dennis Mazur, "The record doesn't seem to reflect on the team because the conference we're in is the best in state."

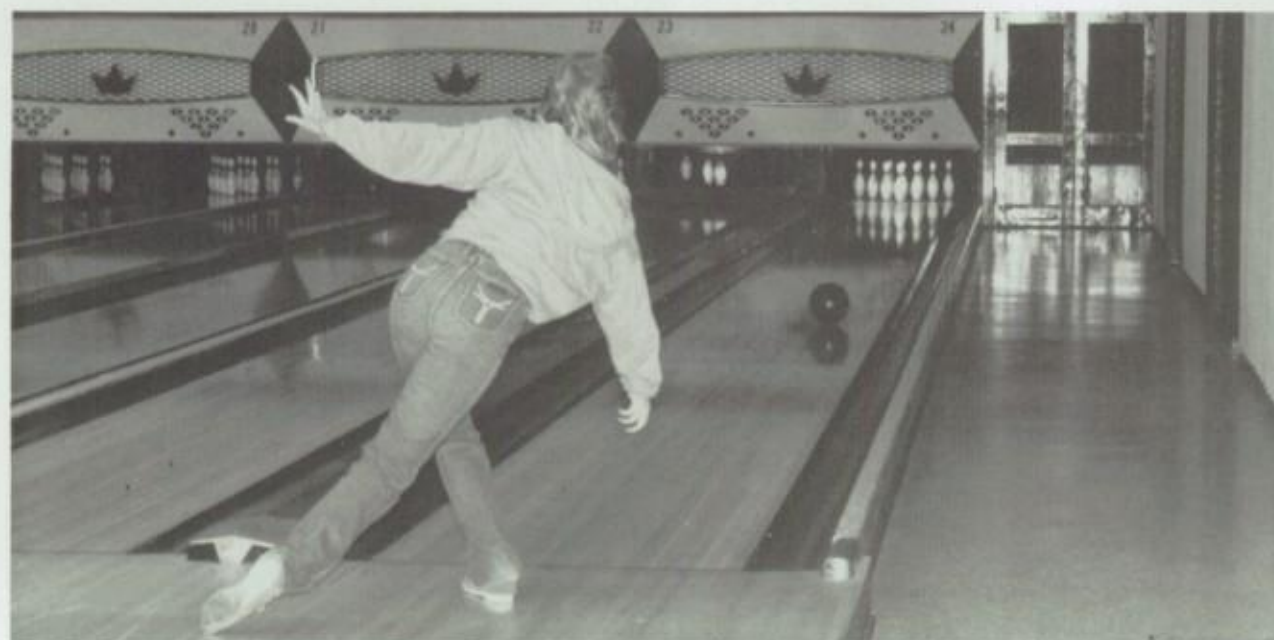

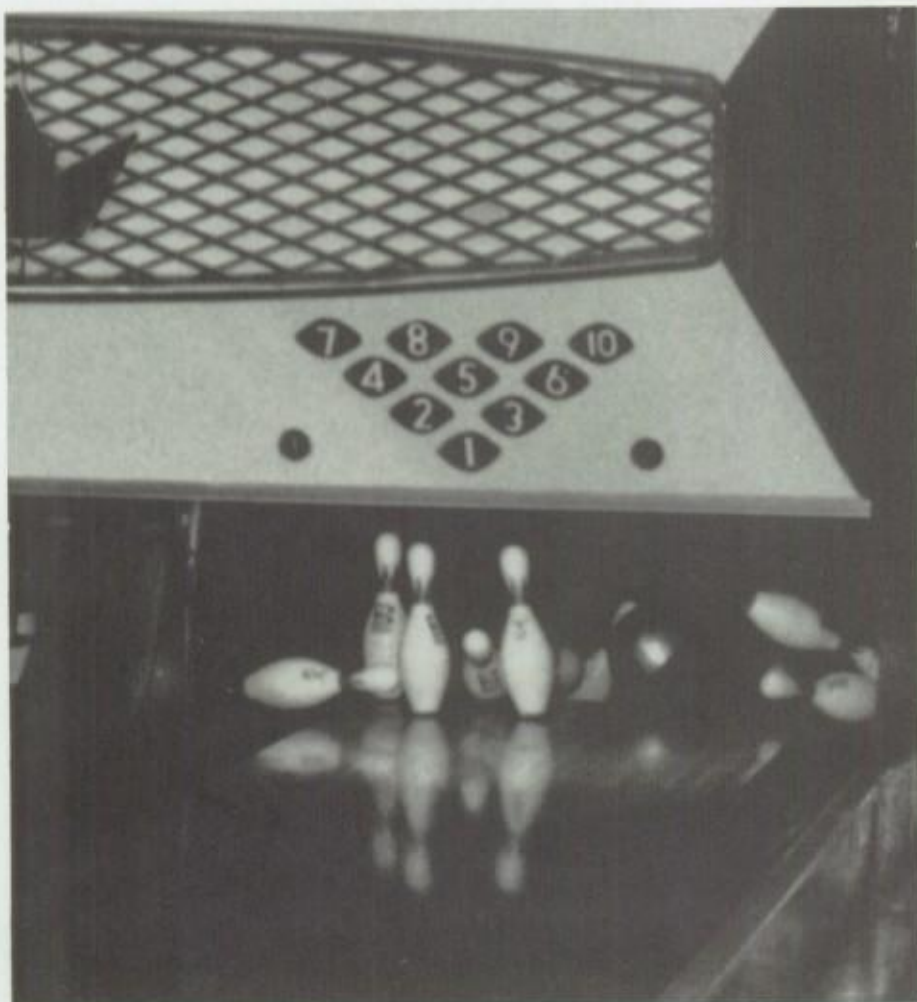

The highlight of the team was Michelle Hashiguchi, who won the Rolling Meadows Invitational with a score of 9.0 on her floor exercise. Mazur said her accomplishment was "a great honor because a lot of girls in this competition are state qualifiers and this is a great challenge." Hashiguchi was also the only state qualifier the gymnastics team had this year. As a freshman she placed 23rd in state.

Other girls that made contributions to the team were Vicki Berman for her floor exercise, Sue Chritsman on bars, Mary Boyer on beam, and Jenni Klein, who will be joining the varsity team next year. Mazur said, "I feel that Vicki Berman was the most improved this season."

Placing first at district and fifth at state was the highlight of this year's bowling team. Sophomore Janet Kochan said, "We went out and gave it our best and this is what we got in return." Individual qualifiers for state were Denise Kochan and Debbie Hackett. Receiving an award for conference, Denise Kochan placed fourth for high league average. Out of the 12 teams who participated in the conference, the bowlers placed first with a team average of 799.7.

The team as a whole said it had a good relationship with the coach. Senior Kelly Kusch stated, "Mr. Fiegen is a good coach. He's not out to win; he just wants us to do our best. If we make it to state it's the icing on the cake," Fiegen said.

Although the Varsity Badminton team finished the season with a record of 2-10, Coach Betty Pruitt felt the team had a lot more enthusiasm than last year. "They were hard workers and dedicated themselves to the team and they have a lot of potential for the future," said Pruitt.

The team advanced singles player June Ratanasuwan and the doubles team of Crystal Boyles and Kim Gurley to the state tournament at New Trier. Ratanasuwan finished in the top sixteen players in the state, while Gurley and Boyles did not advance to the second day of play.

When asked to comment about the team, Pruitt stated, "I really enjoyed working with this group and I hope they will all be back next year."

Surpassing everyone's expectations, the Boys' Varsity Basketball team became the first Bison basketball team to win a sectional championship. Playing to the best of their ability, the team finished the season with a 21-9 record, captured their own regional, and went on to win the Waukegan sectional. After advancing to the Evanston Supersectional and gaining sweet 16 status, this talented team lost to the Evanston Wildcats. About the season, Coach Paul Grady said, "They played very hard, as close to their physical potential as any team I've ever had." The squad also fulfilled their goals, which included winning 20 games, advancing as far as possible in the state tournament, bringing a trophy back at Christmas (second place from the Peoria Richwoods Christmas Tournament), and winning the conference (9-3 record, second place). Grady was pleased with the team, adding, "It was a satisfying year as a coach. They provided an exciting year and one we're proud of."

The success the team achieved was due largely to the performances of Paul Petersen and Brian Coderre. Petersen, a three-year varsity guard, set numerous records and became the third Bison ever to pass the 1,000 point scoring mark. He also shattered the single season and single game assist records. Petersen was also a key defensive player and set the season record for recoveries and steals. To honor these accomplishments, Petersen was elected captain by his teammates, was voted onto the All-Conference team and made the Daily Herald's All-Area first team.

On the receiving end of Petersen's assists was senior Brian Coderre. Coderre led all scores with a 24.8 points per game average. He scored 745 points this season to become the leader in single season scoring and the fourth Bison to break the 1,000 point career scoring mark.

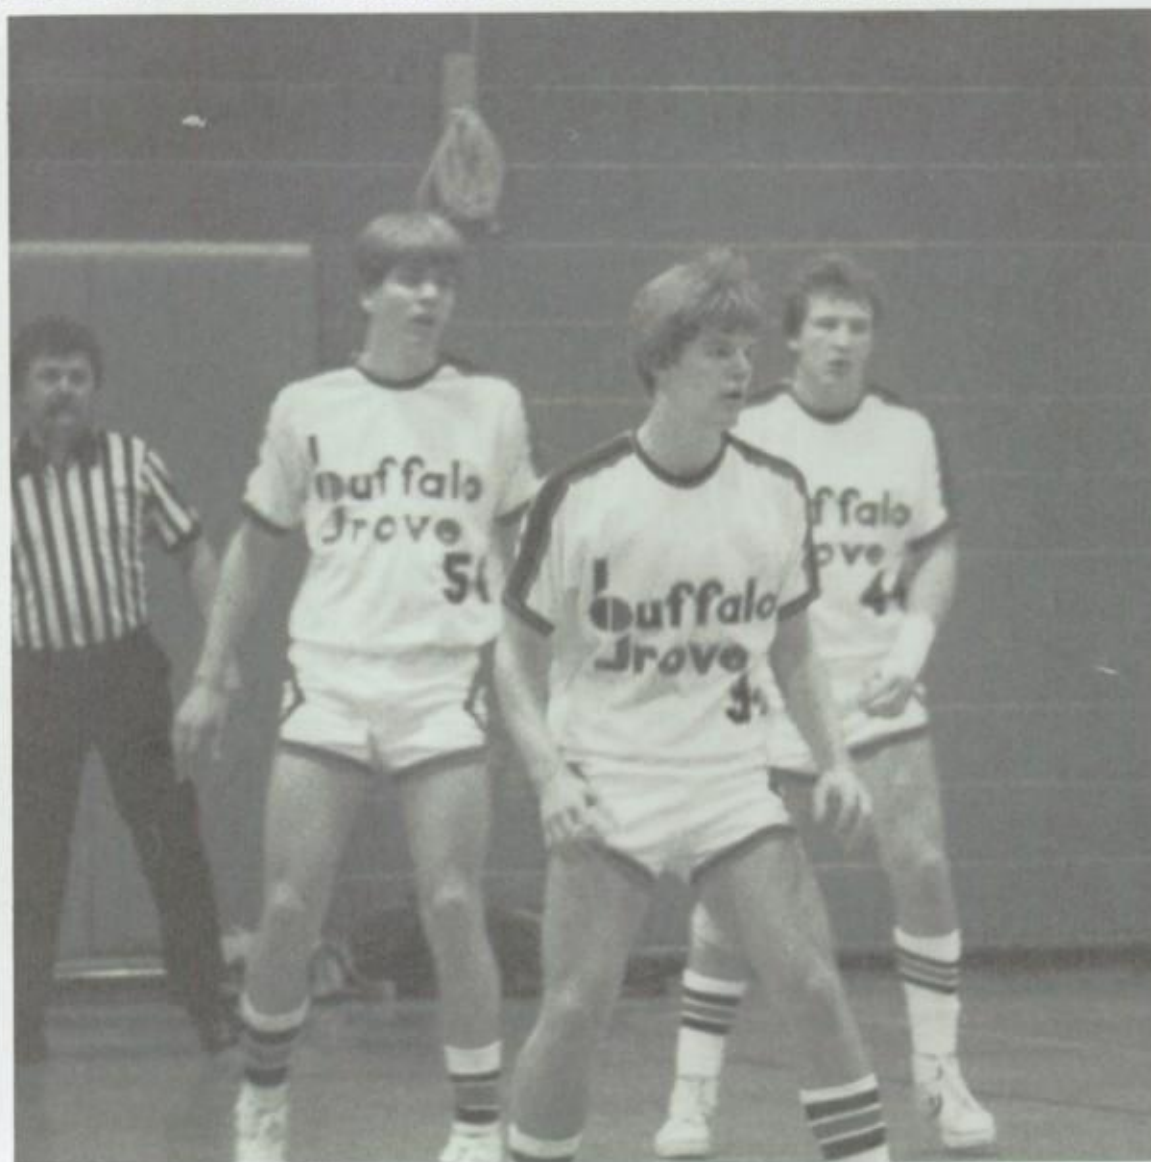

When not scoring, Coderre was rebounding and led the team with 9.4 rebounds per game. He was voted Most Valuable Player by his teammates while also being the most valuable player in the Mid Suburban League and the Daily Herald's All-Area MVP.

They practiced with the varsity team and played their games on Saturday mornings. Part of the success of the Varsity came from the dedication of the J-V level. Gress said, "They always pushed and fought their hardest against the Varsity team." The last several games, the team lost by extremely close margins.

Some significant contributions to the team were made by Tom Berg, Ray Bandemer, Pat Carew, Mark Gibbs, Brian Korbel, and Mike Lach.

This year the Freshman A and B teams both ended with winning seasons. The A team ended with a 14-7 record while the B team ended 12-09. Fred Van Iten said, "The most consistent players were Jim Wagner and Mark Benson." Tom Weidemann said, "My team had a lot of potential."

The sophomore team also had a successful season. They began with numerous wins and very close games. Then Brian Korbelt was sent up to Varsity. Coach Dick Wiseman said, "the loss of Korbelt weakened the team." The leading players were Pat Coderre and Dave Smith.

The sophomores ended the season with a .500 records. Many losses were by one or two point margins. Tim Drevline said, "the highlight of our season was winning our last game, against Arlington, by one point."

Advancing to Regionals was the highlight of the Girls' Varsity Basketball team. Even when there were many ups and downs during the year the girls pulled through and made it. Team members, Michelle Hackett, most valuable player; Jennifer Rood, most improved player; Julie Finnegan, voted Miss Hustle; and Michele Hackett, best free thrower, improved the team. All the team members did a superb job.

Helping the team members feel more secure was the good relationship between the team and the coach. Coach Tom Dineen said, "We're more like friends rather than a team-coach relationship."

"A great group of athletes," was coach John Erfort's description of this year's Junior Varsity basketball team. The talented players had a successful year with an overall record of 17-4 and a 10-2 conference record.

The leading scorer for the hard working team was Kim McDonald. Her highest score was against Barrington with 23 points. Although there wasn't one valuable player, "Everyone was valuable to the team," said coach Erfort.

Out of the many games played, the highest score of the season was against Streamwood in the Maine West tournament. They scored a total of 69 points. Their average points per game was 47.0. Their winning percentage was .809.

The team got right down to business and encouraged one another to do their best by having pride and confidence in one another. Erfort said, "They were very intelligent and well organized." He also added with a proud grin, "They were an extremely hard working team."

"They tried their hardest until the end," said Coach Kathy Furlong. This season the Freshman Girls' Basketball team could not quite bring off a great season. But many of the opposing teams were extremely tough this year. Many of the games lost were by very close margins.

But working together is something they did do. Each game the girls played, they strived to win and worked hard together. Everybody had a chance to play throughout the season, and they improved more every game. An outstanding player was Kellie Flynn, who broke the girls' freethrow record.

The 1984 Season was an outstanding year for the Bison wrestlers, who had their best overall record ever with 22 dual meet victories and only 2 losses. Their biggest triumph was finishing first in the MSL North. Never before in Bison history has this feat been accomplished. They also won the Regional Tournament and finished second in sectionals.

Achieving many goals throughout the year, the team managed to set nine team records and also to have seven sectional qualifiers and three state qualifiers, including Dave Marinkovich, Jim Faulhaber, Mark Walters, Dave Durlacker, Glen Rymsza, Mark Walker. Glen McGowean, Mark Walter, Jim Faulhaber, and Dave Marinkovich also qualified for state competition. Dave Marinkovich had an excellent year, placing second in state and ending his season with a 41-4 record.

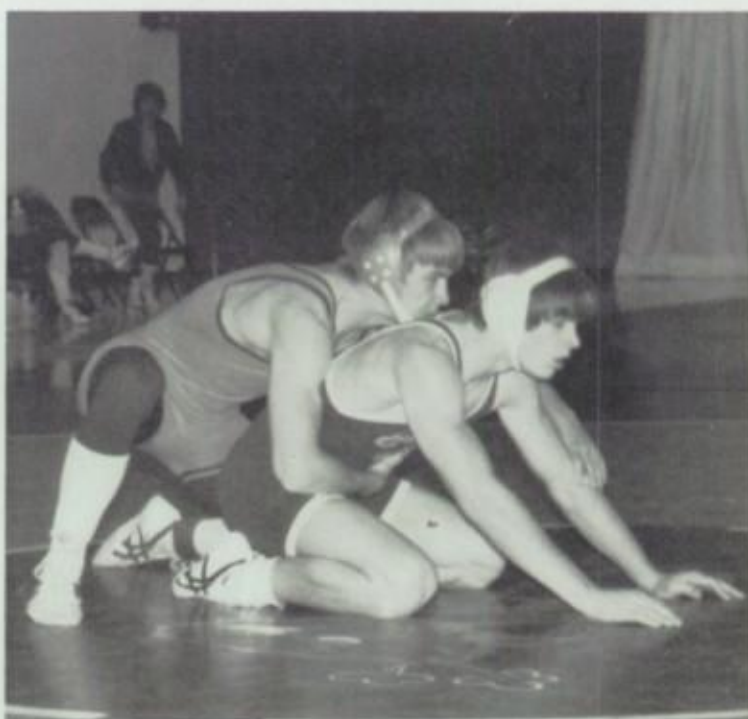

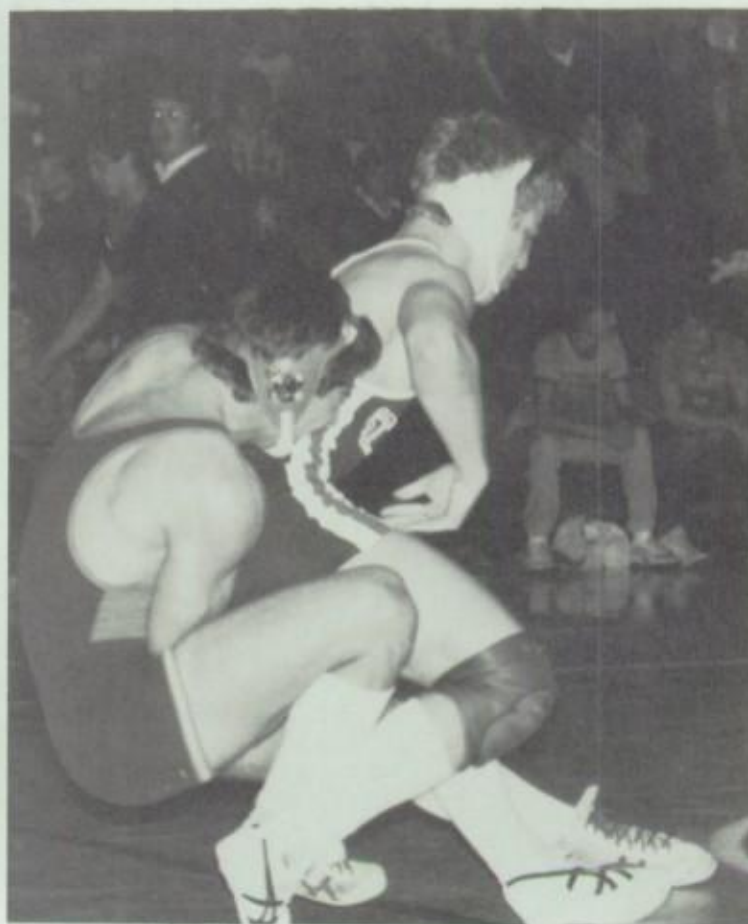

Bob Tipsword said, "This was the best season for B.G. ever and in all nine years of coaching this season was the most exciting and rewarding."

"This year's swimming team was the most well-rounded, solid team we've ever had," stated Coach Kerwin. The Buffalo Grove team performed better this year than in any other in the history of Buffalo Grove. The reason for this, according to Kerwin, was that all the swimmers had practiced with each other for a couple of years.

Senior Todd Horndasch was the all time scorer in the history of Buffalo Grove High School. Todd accumulated 551 points for the varsity team since his freshman year.

For the first time Buffalo Grove beat Arlington in swimming competition.

For the first time in its history, the varsity baseball team reached sectional competition. During regionals, B.G. was the victor over Stevenson 9-3, Glenbrook North 6-4, and New Trier 6-5. Then came the deciding game. Could Buffalo Grove beat Notre Dame who record to date was 25 wins, 6 losses? There was an all out effort on the blue and orange team, but Notre Dame emerged the victor after a three hour struggle. The final score of that final game was 12-9. Phil Bareck, Tim Bogar, Ben Dobrei, Pete Drevline, Tim Martin, Dave Merker, Bob Mitchell, and Paul Peterson all made superior and recognizable efforts for this game.

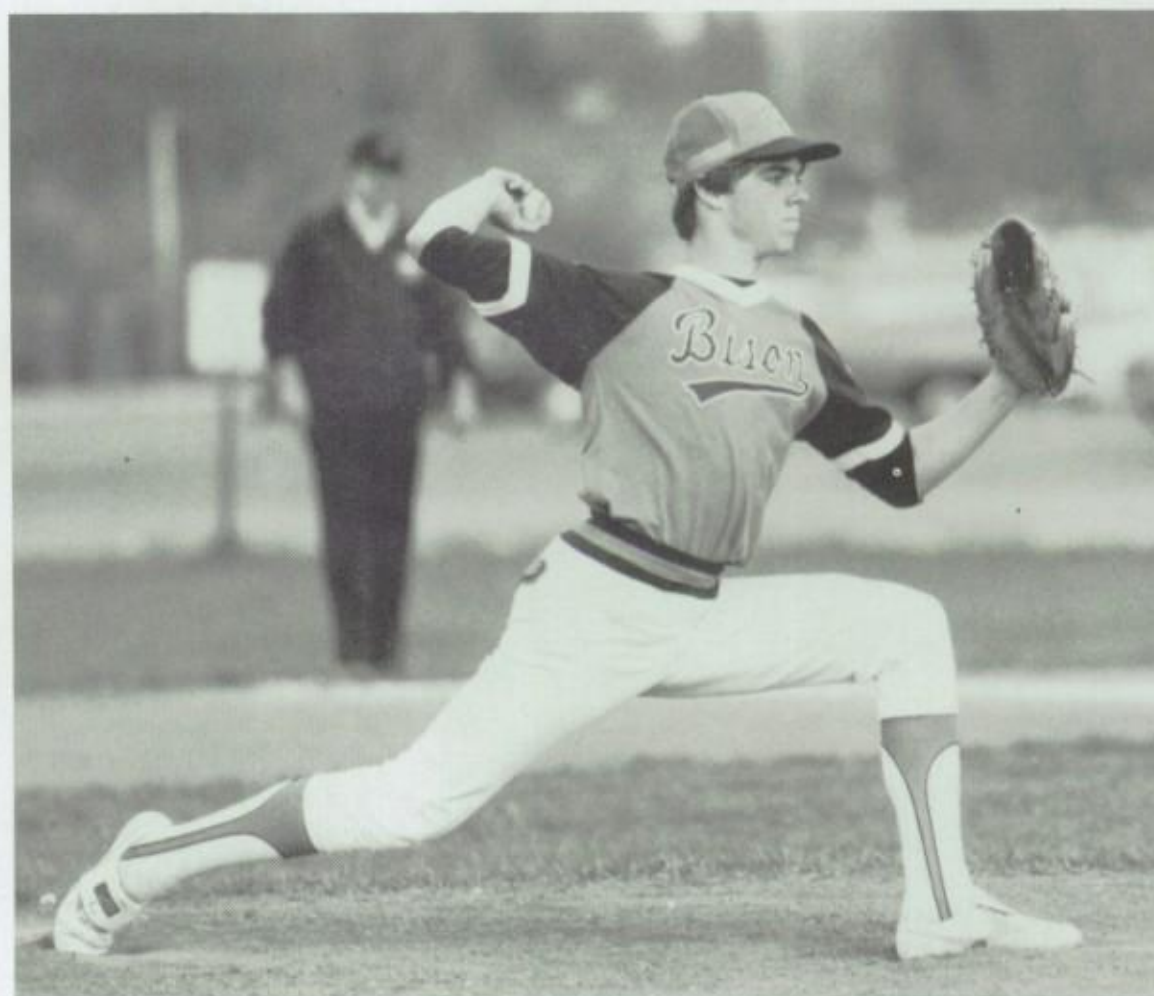

The most valuable player of the Bison baseball team was senior Tim Bogar. He made spectacular fielding plays all through the season and towards the end of the season he had some good hits as well. At the finish of the season, Bogar was well over the .330 mark, placing him in among the top five hitters in Bison baseball history. Bogar's skill and leadership was consistent and superior on and off the field and those qualities made him the Bison m.v.p.

Senior Pete Drevline was honored with the knowledge that he had the most home runs in the mid-suburban league. Drevline had seven home runs through the regular season, which tied him with B.G. alumni and now professional ball player Mike Marshall. When the Bison beat the Barrington Broncos with a score of 6-4, the Countryside Reminder called it "Drevline Day" since he hit two home runs during the game. Paul Peterson and Brian Rafferty each hit one home run during that game also.

"The best part of our season was winning two games in a row against Wheeling," said Bill Andres. Throughout the season many games were cancelled due to bad weather, so the season ended with a double header against Wheeling.

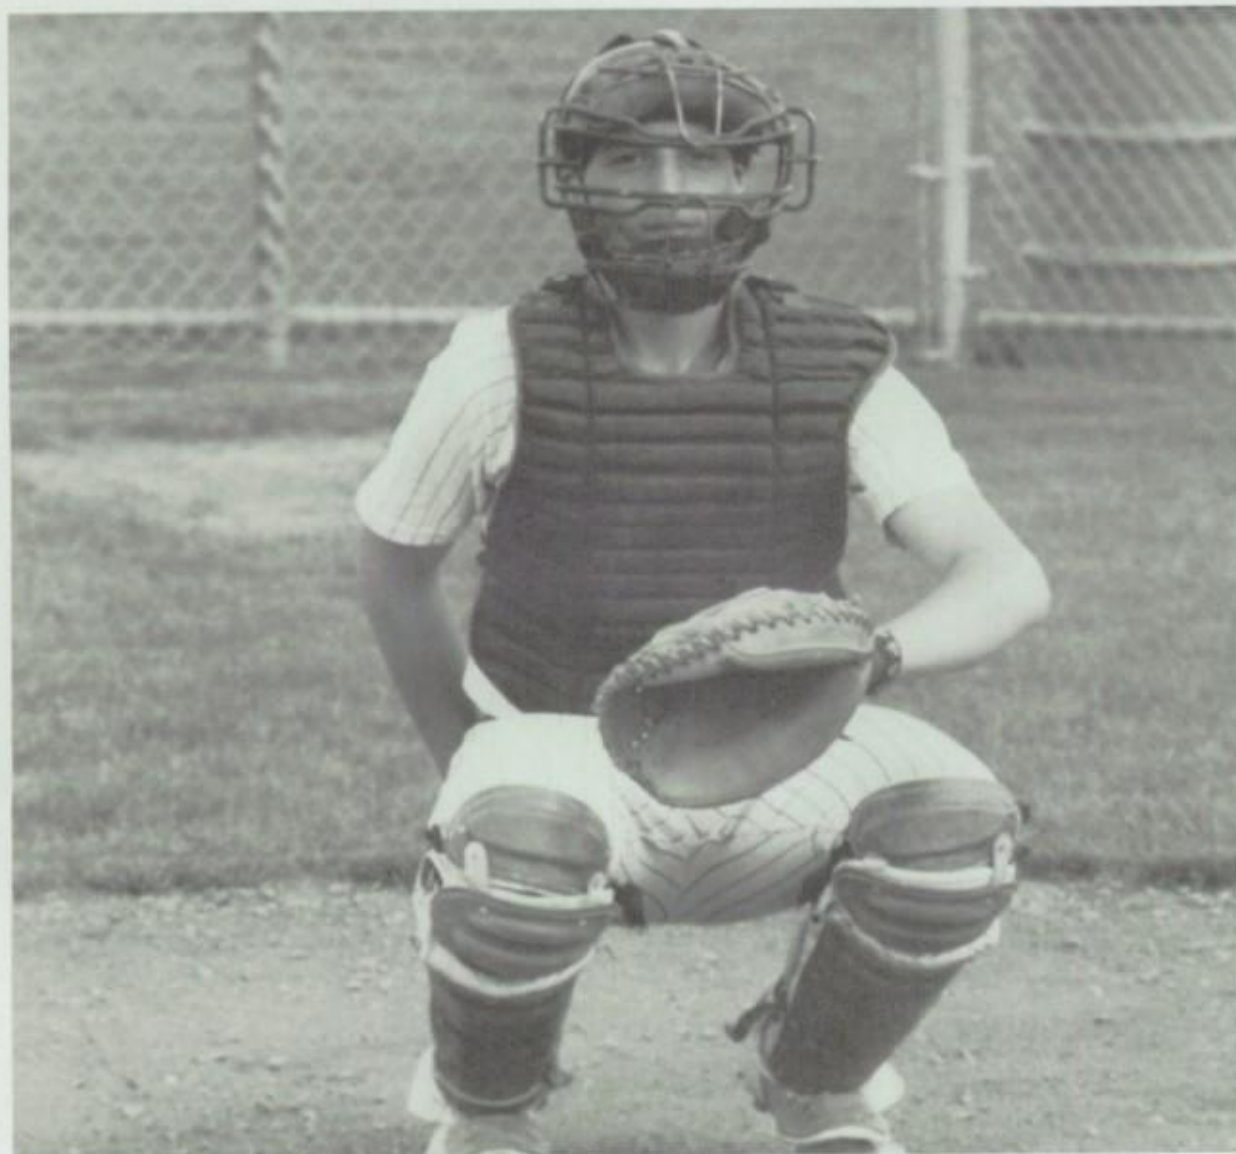

Although it was a winning season, the sophomore team was disappointed with a 10-9 record. Matt Johlle said, "We didn't play up to our potential." "The bases were run well and the ball was hit hard, but the pitching was inconsistent," said Tom Dineen. "The pitching was the difference between an outstanding season and a winning season."

Sam Merriott said, "The low point of our season was losing five games in a row." The record made it look like they were not quite successful, but as the season progressed everyone learned more. Dineen named Matt Johlle, Chris Noie, Todd Schewchuck, and Dave Weiner the most outstanding players.

Due to the unfavorable weather this season, the freshman boys' baseball team ended its season with a record of 7-12. Because of the weather, nine rained out games had to be made up in 10 days, which left the team no time to practice. Coach Frank Derosa said, "The kids deserved better."

The team placed fourth in the North Division.

Short stop Scott Opfer came within one hit of the freshman record for most hits in a year. He earned a batting average of .364. Catcher Chad Dobrei, with a batting average of .382, was within two hits of the freshman hit record. Teammate Mike Rogalevich had an ERA of 2.25 to lead the pitchers.

3rd	Sectional Meet	—

The Bison Varsity Tennis team finished its 1984 season with a 2-7 overall dual meet record. The poor record was due to several injuries and a lack of experience on the team, which included only two seniors.

The injuries began early in the season when freshman Jim Lengemann sprained his ankle before the first meet, putting him out for the year. In the middle of the season, Bud Daleiden broke his toe, and Dan Urbain sprained his ankle, taking them also off the courts. "There seemed to be a lack of drive, especially in matches that went into a third set. The team lost 12 of 17 third sets," said coach Don Biere.

The best overall record was held by juniors Doug Sammons and Tim Petersen, playing at first doubles. They finished up with nineteen wins and ten losses. "The doubles teams generally played better than the singles teams," said Guy Rymsza.

Although this year's boys' gymnastic team was only 4-6, senior Matt Mirabelli and sophomore Mike Cik brought the team's spirit up by qualifying for state. Most of the team members were beginning gymnasts.

Dave Bruskin said, "I think the pommel horse was probably the most difficult one to learn tricks on and the hardest one to perform on."

Strength, endurance and many hard, disciplined hours were what made a successful gymnast. Coach Dennis Mazur said, "Gymnasts practice between two and four hours every day. During the competing season they practiced harder and even more."

In gymnastics everyone competes individually. Eventually the individual scores are added together to make a team score. Unlike in team sports, every gymnast who tried out made the team.

Many goals and records were made by the boys' and girls' track teams. One standout of the boys' team was high hurdler Rich Sobchinsky, who scored a 15.1 on his hurdling event, which placed him third in district. Also, Scott Milewski was the first long jumper in eight years to go 20 feet. Sophomore Steve Colins likewise made a contribution to the team with his best ever score in the 880, running it in 1.59. Moreover, Tom Trapp achieved the highlight of the season, setting an indoor record in the 440 yard dash, and placing fifth in on districts out of 36 runners. Trapp was also invited to represent the North Division of the MSL at the National Invitational on June 16. Coach Jerry Blum said, "We had a good season and the boys put forth their greatest effort at the end when it really counted."

The girls also had a rewarding season. Contributions were made by Linda Wakik, who won the sectional meet in the highjump, which qualified her for state competition. A girl has not qualified at that level since 1978. Jill Templer also had a great season, breaking two records in the 1 mile run and 2 mile run. According to coach Steve Gible, "I thought the one mile relay team performed well throughout the year." The team consisted of Julie Bartelson, Virginia Norton, Terrie Girardi, and Jennifer Just. Gible also said, "Overall it was a good season. The meet record doesn't look good but the team showed much improvement throughout the year."

With a team record of 6-11, and a conference record of 4-8, the Varsity Softball team made it a fun and enjoyable year. The top two players were Gail Kozak and Terri Williams, with Gail leading with the top batting average of .382.

Maggie McGinnis was named All-Conference. She led the team in runs batted in with 14, and in fielding average at .941, and in extra base hits with 8. She also had the fewest errors.

The team decided that there wasn't just one top valuable player, but according to varsity coach Doug Donoho, "Michelle Casella came pretty close." The top score of their season was against Fremd, with a score of 14-0.

The junior varsity had a successful year with a record of 14-2, and a conference record of 11-1, making them the champs of the North Division. Their valuable players were sophomores Eileen Rafferty and Betsy Hendersen, and freshmen Kris Hrisko, Bobbi Shields, Jan Wisbey, and Kellie Flynn.

Varsity Coach Donoho said, "I felt the team could have worked harder, but there's no doubt they had fun." He also said, adding a little advice, "Practice, practice, practice is what they need. They never really ever become a team, but individually they were good athletes."

'Andersonville Trial' a success at Regionals

According to director John Marquette, "The Andersonville Trial," the contest play, was "very well done."

The true story takes place in 1865 during a trial in which Captain Henry Wirz is prosecuted for war crimes. He is found guilty and is later hanged.

On March 24, "The Andersonville Trial" won second place in Regionals and later placed fifth during Sectionals on March 31.

Theatre seeks more recognition

One of the problems that students on I.E., Readers Theatre and Stage Crew faced was not enough recognition. A student from Stage Crew, Mary Lewis, said, "We don't receive enough publicity; we had worked on an Orchesis show this spring and nobody knew who to give the credit to."

I.E. stands for individual events. All together there were 11, including speech, drama, oral interpretations and acting. Ilyse Friedman said, "I.E. has helped me improve my formal speaking abilities. I now feel more comfortable about talking in front of an audience. Adding to that, we have a lot of fun."

At the regional contest the team participated in the Scottie tournament of champions at Illinois State University. Phil Sabes, Frank Piciullo, and Pete Byrnes received one third place, three second places and one first place, qualifying them all for sectionals.

Readers theatre was an acting group that performed with no props, costumes, make-up, music, lights or sets. They only use themselves and a script. Five girls placed fourth in the main tournament: seniors Carol Minarik and Dawn Kramer, junior Ellen Tieberg, sophomore Shireen Brady and freshman Tina Bower.

Helping out with Readers Theatre was Stage Crew. "Although we're not on stage acting, we like to get involved with the theatre," said Mary Lewis. "We also work longer hours than the actors, but it's worth it when we see the finished product."

Debaters capture 95 trophies, surpassing last years total by 40

Competing at all levels, the Buffalo Grove debate team had its most successful year. Debating U.S. criminal court procedures and participating in fourteen tournaments, the team captured an unprecedented 95 trophies, which surpassed last year's record total by over 40 awards.

At the varsity level, juniors Eric Bochner and George Kokkines completed a successful year, winning the championship at the ISTA tournament and finishing first at the Illinois High School Association Sectional Tournament.

On junior varsity level, sophomore Becky Epstein and junior Shari Bine finished first at ISTA to highlight an extremely successful year. Also on this level were junior Phil Schreiber and sophomores Mile Shabsin and Mark Zickert. Shabsin and Schreiber made it to the elimination rounds at ISTA.

On the novice level, freshmen Brian Den-nen and Peter Tautoles placed third at the ISTA tournament. In addition, junior Kelly Blair and sophomore Kathy Mulkerrin won many trophies throughout the year and placed fifth at the ISTA State Tournament. Also, throughout the season, freshman Ira Kalina and Stephani Rubin, sophomores Jae Chung and Elisa Silverman, Terri Williams and David Mann all turned in outstanding performances on the novice level.

"The success of the debate team was primarily due to the superior coaching of Linda Cesario and Diane Landow," said Kelly Blair. Cesario, who has coached the debate team for six years, left teaching to accept a position as assistant to the Chancellor at the University of Illinois. "We will miss Mrs. Cesario's commitment and coaching to the debate team," said Jae Chung. Blair added, "Mrs. Cesario was a good coach and a good friend."

Speaking foreign languages promotes good feelings

Speaking another language can make a person feel important. Knowing that one may be able to help a person in any emergency or just converse with a person from another country gives many people a special feeling. That is why many people enjoy participating in foreign language clubs.

Raising money for I.F.C. (International Friendship Club), German Club and French Club was important. Throughout the year

German Club sold gummy bears, I.F.C. collaborated with A.F.S. to make and sell pizzas, and French Club stood out by selling calendars.

Not all of language clubs' time was spent fundraising. They use some of the money to enjoy their activities. This past year German Club participated in a German trade fair along with 8 other schools. The German Club city team placed second while the company team took home a first place. French Club throughout the year has "French gourmet parties" and went to French plays. The I.F.C. club put on an international week for students, during which students visiting from other countries for a year came to schools in the U.S. to speak about their country.

Peer Counselors aim high to reach all students

Concluding its third year, Peer Counseling has seen unlimited success in helping many people throughout the school who have problems. From 100 applicants, only eighteen juniors and seniors were selected for the program.

The young counselors underwent a series of training sessions in which they learned various skills such as listening and communication techniques. These techniques provided not only a valuable learning experience to the Peer Counselors, but also provided valuable assistance to those they counseled.

The Peer Counselors, along with their advisors Mr. Intile and Mrs. Leslie, attended various workshops on drug and alcohol abuse. They also conducted a workshop in March concerning teenage sexuality, pregnancy, and abortions.

The Peer Counseling program was expanded with the aims of reaching all students. The Peer Counselors lectured at junior high schools to inform incoming freshman of what opportunities high school offers them, and also during sophomore health classes with the goal of informing them of the dangers of peer pressure.

Senior Felicia Rischall concluded the year by saying, "Peer Counseling was a growing experience for me and one which will further enable me to pursue my career."

Freshman, varsity choirs enjoy work

This was the year for both Freshman and Varsity choirs. It was a year of fun, excitement, and of course those tense moments at concerts and contests.

One of the concerts found most enjoyable by Varsity members was the Jazz Concert. But even more interesting was the performance at Kirk Center for the mentally and physically retarded children. "It was quite an experience," said Lisa Simon, Varsity member. "One I will remember."

Freshmen also experienced an occasion that they found most enjoyable. They caroled at Northwest Community Hospital and later at the Lutheran Home for the aged.

Along with the fun came the daily rehearsals to perfect songs for the Spring Open Concert, the Winter Concert, and the Jazz Concert. Even more rehearsals were scheduled for those members entered in the solo and ensemble contest held at Mundelein High School. The Contest was held on Saturday, March 3.

Extra rehearsals were also scheduled for the Freshmen and Varsity, who performed a song together called "Magnificent."

The rehearsals and successive performances led to a remarkable year for both choirs.

Contests and concerts lead to fulfilling year for Concert Choir

A full and enjoyable year was Concert Choir's goal, and by all accounts it was achieved. They started out the year by visiting the Museum of Science and Industry. Later on many members, ranging from 20-24, carried their own talent to District 7. Along with that came the Solo and Ensemble contest, where many members participated and enjoyed the experience.

Towards the end of the year the choir was involved in the 214 Festival for all schools in the district. They then took an exciting trip to St. Louis, where they performed at Six Flags from April 27-29.

The members enjoyed the annual concerts. "But our favorite," said member Stephen Rose, "is the Jazz concert in spring." Rose said, "It's the most enjoyable one because we get a chance to sing the songs we like, and that are popular."

(above right) Rehearsing a song not only requires singing but also keeping an eye on the teacher.

Successful year for Expressions

Another year of outstanding and vivacious performances were provided by the Expressions. The semi-professional singing and dancing group won first place in Class AAA at the Cedar Rapids, Iowa Invitational Spring Choir Competition (fifty-seven groups participated). Also, the Expressions received a best in show rating at the Cedar Rapids show. Furthermore, the Expressions put on two major concerts, performed at State Association of recreational of Park Districts in Oregon, Illinois, and performed many smaller shows at schools, nursing homes, and banquets.

The Expressions performing group was directed by Linda Anderson. Mrs. Anderson sponsored the Expressions for ten years. According to Anderson, "This years group is very responsive, very talented, and very loving." Anderson further stated, "Very easy to work with and very enjoyable to work with." The group was made up of a highly talented and diverse group of students. The extra-curricular activities that the members participated in ranged from football to peer counseling. Furthermore, the members are from a wide age and class range.

Finally, Anderson said, "I am enthusiastic about the upcoming group. They have a lot of vocal talent, a lot of enthusiasm, and overall they sound good." Anderson added, "I am looking forward to working with them."

Europe creates excitement and great challenge

Last year 57 members of the orchestra put a lot of effort into raising enough money to tour Europe for sixteen days in June. They sold pizza, spent eight hours playing in a play-a-thon and three hours rolling in a wheel-a-thon. But all the hard work paid off. They spent four days in Austria, three days in Switzerland, five days in Germany, and four days in France. While in Germany they spent two days and nights with the families of Weil der Stadt, Germany. Freshman Naomi Gotoh said of the trip, "I was nervous but I think it was an honor to go to Europe."

During the year the orchestra gave five concerts: two of them were with the choir, and the others included the Pops and Pretzels concert in November and an orchestra concert in February. The soloist concert in May featured soloist junior Kevin Cook, playing "Symphonie Espagnol" by Lalo on violin. Senior Alice Brockway also played violin in the "Concerto in E minor" by Mendelssohn.

In January, five string players went to Springfield to play in the All-State orchestra. They were violinists Kevin Cook and sophomore Mark Lang, violists senior Ed Karls and sophomore Laura Michalowski, and bassist senior Mike Curry.

Several smaller groups came out of the orchestra. The largest was the Strolling Strings with twenty members. They performed at the Pops and Pretzels concert and in Arts Unlimited. They also played for banquets out of school.

The other smaller groups were several quartets. They all participated in solo and ensemble contest and three quartets were chosen to go to the Allerton Chamber Symposium.

Marching band works, jokes through season

Drum majors Sandra Sims and Jeff Peterson and assistant drum major Luana Strzok led the band proudly through its routines at the first annual District 214 Marching Band Festival in October at Arlington High School. On October 7, the band played the fight song through the halls and resource rooms to evoke spirit for the Homecoming game the following day. Students seemed to enjoy the parade because they got a short break from their calculus, biology, U.S. History, Expo II, typing, or a grueling game of flicker ball to sing the fight song to get excited for the weekend events. Even faculty members smile as the percussionists play as loudly as possible to evoke spirit.

Seniors expressed themselves through a rowdy dance routine performed at the final home football game's half-time show. The routine was choreographed to "She Blinded Me with Science" and it added a special touch to their senior show because they all had to pull together to make it work.

The marching season was brought to a close with the annual Band-O-Rama early in November. Band-O-Rama is a time when each section goes off on its own and makes a routine to any arrangement the band used through the season. This year the best section award was presented to the clarinets and saxophones, whose combined efforts paid off. Band-O-Rama wasn't completely serious, though; it was also a time for the drum majors to get back at people who were trouble makers during the season by means of "gag awards." Some of the awards: "the person who talks the most and says the least," Jim Dier; "the person who talks the least and says the most," Missy Broderick; the "Greek award" went to Drum Major Jeff Peterson; the "I've got rhythm award" went to freshman percussionist Ethan Goldspiel; and the "do as I say not as I do" award went to Steve Noble. There were serious awards presented to outstanding marching band members, such as the opposite award was the "most likely to march into a swamp," presented to freshman Scott McKinley. The finale of Band-O-Rama represented the close of another fun, exciting, sweat-filled marching season and the beginning of the more serious, calm, concert season.

Band travels to Tennessee to play for Vets

After the loud, harsh sounds of marching season were over, the band was divided into the symphonic and concert bands and the calm tones of concert season began.

In December, the bands had their first concert of the year, the Winter Band Concert. The bands prepared for this concert all through November and up until the day of the concert. Also in December, the bands went to the Conrad Hilton in Chicago for the National Midwest Band and Orchestra Clinic, where they learned about different instruments, listened to concerts, and sampled fund-raiser foods.

January brought the Big Band Bash, a dance set up by the band as a fund raiser. The Combined Band was divided into the "B" band and the "G" Band, and along with them Jazz Bands I and II played and the Expressions performed. Through February individual members and groups divided up and practiced hard for the solo and ensemble contest held early in March. This year was the fourth consecutive year that the band won the Contest Sweepstakes, which meant that more people won first place medals from Buffalo Grove than from any other school at the competition.

Also in March, Concert Band and Symphonic Band were joined with the Cooper and St. Mary's bands for the spring concert.

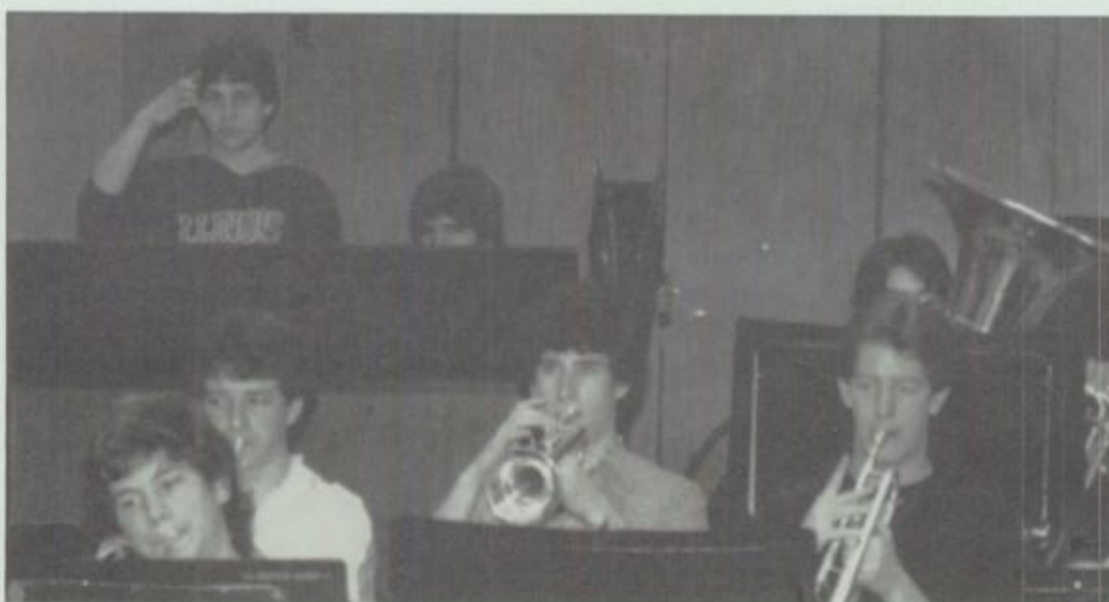

In April, the symphonic band rehearsed daily in preparation for IHSA Band, Orchestra, and Choral competition on April 14. After that, the bands were again combined as one large group to prepare for the Pops Concert on April 29.

May 25-28 the band took a trip to Tennessee. They went to the Mamouth Caves, Hermitage Landing, and they played at a veteran's hospital and Memorial Day. The band also played at Opryland in Nashville. To help pay for the trip, band members sold cheese and sausage, and Christmas ornaments; they held a giant garage sale in the school parking lot; and there was an all night Sports-a-Thon fundraiser in the field house. Also money from the Big Band Bash and the Pops Concert tickets helped pay for the trip. Fifty five bandsmen went on the trip to represent Buffalo Grove High School.

Anderson fresh inspiration with first jazz band

Jazz played a major role in the music department at Buffalo Grove during the '83-'84 school year. There were two Jazz Bands, Jazz Band I, under the direction of Linda Anderson, and Jazz Band II, conducted by Keith Ramsden.

Both jazz bands had a busy year, rehearsing for two hours a day, twice a week, from November through June. Jazz Bands I and II performed at the Big Band Bash (a band fund-raiser dance) in January, the Winter Jazz Band Concert in February and at the Spring Jazz Band Concert in April.

Jazz Band I also joined the orchestra and played at the annual "Pop and Pretzel" concert in November. In January, they were asked to play at the Museum of Science and Industry for an A.T.&T. exhibition. At their Winter Concert, senior Alice Brockway soloed with the top jazz band, singing "Send in the Clowns." Jazz Band I also played at the Oak Lawn Jazz Festival and Northwestern University, where they were instructed by professional jazz musicians.

Seven members of the eighteen member Jazz Band spent all of March and early April playing for the Expressions. These seven members, Mike Curry, Steve Morgan, Jim Dier, Dave Zoloto, Chris Whalen, Mike Cozzarelli, and Rob Waligurski, traveled with the Expressions to Iowa and played in the pit for their concert on April 6 and 7. After the Expressions show, Jazz Band I worked extra hard to play a sparkling performance for their final concert on April 18.

This was Anderson's first year to lead Jazz Band I and sophomore Carl Schulz felt she was "a fresh inspiration for the Jazz Band."

At the completion of her first year with Jazz Band I, Anderson said, "I really enjoyed working with Jazz Band I. They are a very energetic and talented group of people."

Charger grows; stampede understaffed

The yearbook and newspaper both have to do with writing about school events. Due to the fact events are forever changing, John Thompson, editor for the Charger, stated that "We've covered more district events and we've done a better job of doing it with expanded coverage. We have been more courageous in standing up for what we believe in. "In addition," added John, "we've taken better photos and have been more careful than ever with the proof reading."

The Stampede has gotten more students to contribute more creative ideas. Although last year the Stampede had a small staff and a lot more work was put on the students, this year the contribution and creative ideas from other students have helped tremendously.

Exactly opposite of the Stampede's small staff is the Charger's overcrowded staff. Mrs. Wright, advisor for the Charger, stated "It has its good points and its bad points; it's nice to have a big staff because more people want to get involved with more stories. On the other hand, a larger staff can create too much work for some people."

Even though the yearbook staff may be small, the people still have their likes and dislikes about being on the staff. Sophomore Candi Riehle commented, "I enjoy being on the Stampede staff because I like to get involved with activities having to do with school." Advisor Dale Dassonville stated, "Most students find it exciting to see their work in print for everybody to see."

Just as yearbook had its pluses and minuses, so did the newspaper. Editor John Thompson commented, "I like to write about things that I ordinarily wouldn't have written about before; I also like to take stands for what I believe in." "What I don't like is when we have had staff problems." Wright commented on her likes and dislikes also. "I like the close relationships between the students and the teachers; it is not the ordinary student-teacher relationship."

Council provides focus on school and community

"This year's Student Council was the best I've ever worked with," said sponsor Terry Orton, adding, "The Council fulfilled all objectives with the greatest success." According to Orton, the goals of Student Council were to provide the student body with a focus for school and community activities. Other goals included raising money for class and community activities.

This year the Council held a Spirit Week, mixers, dances, and freshmen tours. Some community projects the Student Council participated in were an auction which raised funds for Muscular Dystrophy, and Kiwanis Peanut Day.

During the school year, Student Council members participated in many workshops. During these workshops, the members attended discussion groups and sessions where they learned leadership techniques. Furthermore, the Student Council sponsored a leadership banquet at the Chevy Chase Country Club.

First time member Dawn Romano commented, "Before this year, I never fully understood the impact Student Council made on our school. I now realize how much time and effort the Council spends in improving our school."

Two credits received a year by ICE members

Industrial Cooperative Education was a program designed to provide vocational training on a part time basis. School time was devoted to high school courses required for graduation, and a study of the technical information involving the occupation of the student. Each person received training from a qualified employer.

The requirements for being a ICE member were a minimum age of 16, junior or senior standing, and an aptitude for the type of work done. Different areas of training were drafting, cashier, stock clerk, printing, and dental lab technician.

Two credits were received for a full year, and one credit for a semester. It was also a club. There were fund raisers in the beginning of the year. During the spring, there was an employer appreciation banquet, and all of the employers received a plaque for their assistance. "It is a great help after high school because it gives the student a head start in a future job," said Mr. Maki.

Holbrock, Hohn place in state O.E. competition

"Office Education offers experience opportunities for students to develop career goals through on the job training," stated teacher Sharon Leslie. She continued, "For me, it is a pleasure to work with industry and stay updated in this technological age."

Office Ed. is a two credit program; one credit is attained through the class/club itself, and the other is attained while working a minimum of 15 hours a week in an office job of the student's choice. The program prepares junior or senior students for clerical, secretarial, accounting, and data/word processing positions. Students in the class are automatically in the Office Education Association club which is affiliated at the area, state, and national level.

Senior Chris Hohn won a first place rating in state on a general clerical test. Joanne Holbrock, also a senior, won a second place in state for proofreading and a sixth place rating for information communications.

Ellen Corti is the sponsor for HERO. She exclaimed that this year was a good year and that through the sales of cookbooks, candy canes, coupon books, and candy bars the organization was able to pay for an employer/employee banquet held early in May at the Cabriolet in Libertyville and also for the National Restaurant Show at the Conrad Hilton. This show is the largest convention in the United States. It consists of three floors of exhibits and includes about six miles of walking. "It had displays of everything home economics-related from toothpicks to the most advanced commercial stoves and refrigerators," reflected Corti.

HERO won first place for their homecoming showboat float.

Cheerleaders take first place at camp, organize Homecoming

"It was especially challenging for the girls and myself this year. With only one sponsor, everyone needed to put forth that extra effort," cheerleading sponsor Beth Arnold.

Over the summer the cheerleaders spent three nights and four days at Dynamic Cheerleaders Association Camp at Rockford College. They learned new skills and different ideas for the upcoming seasons. The Varsity squad brought back a first place trophy for all around best squad and the freshmen squad received ribbons for most improved squads. Sophomore cheerleader Elke Huellen said, "Camp brought us all a lot closer together."

During the school year the cheerleaders cheered for the boys football and basketball games. They also organized the entire Homecoming Dance and Mum sale. They promoted spirit throughout the school by posting spirit signs and arranging pep assemblies. In February the Varsity and Sophomore squads attended a cheerleading competition held at Palatine High School.

"I'm very proud of how dependable and self-disciplined everyone was. I very much enjoyed working with the squads this year; it was truly a pleasure," said Arnold.

Terrific BG-ettes perform for Lutherans, De Paul basketball

"The BG-ettes had a terrific year," said new sponsor Kathy Furlong, "and we hope that next year is even better." The work and determination of the BG-ettes won them third place in state competition.

During the year, the BG-ettes performed at various activities and events such as basketball and football games. Also, the BG-ettes were chosen to perform at a televised De Paul basketball game. Kathy Furlong said, "The girls were excited about the opportunity to perform at the De Paul game. They put so many hours into the routine which they performed for the audience." Furthermore, the BG-ettes performed at the Lutheran retirement home for the elderly.

The BG-ettes held fund raisers in order to finance their trips and performances. The girls were successful enough to be a self supporting organization by selling candy.

Bisonettes win state contest, perform at Wisconsin State Fair

Success came to the Bisonettes in a big way. They placed first in a state wide competition. "The girls went to the competition to perform the best they could," said sponsor Ann Gjertsen, "and their hard work paid off. Their rating shows that."

Orchesis upholds tradition of quality

Orchesis director Miss Martha Maxson summed up the year by commenting, "This year the Orchesis group consisted of 20 new dancers and 12 old members. All were very cooperative, willing to put in extra effort and long hours of rehearsal to produce outstanding creative dances with highly technical movement. Also, they continued to uphold the tradition of dance excellence at B.G.H.S."

The group's first performance was at half-time of a home basketball game. During the Christmas season, the dance group had their first Christmas show in the theatre. Performed were "Starmaker," "Little St. Nick", "Holiday Ballet", and "Far From Over."

The 11th annual spring concert was entitled "Encore 84!" Two dances in the show were "Marr," choreographed by Kris Lewis; and "Toe Kwon do," choreographed by Ellen Yoon and Lisa Ripp. Both of these dances represented Buffalo Grove at the District 214 Dance Festival and auditioned for the State Dance Festival.

Senior board member Kris Lewis said,

"This year's group had very creative ideas and great costumes. We had our doubts, but the show pulled together in the end. It was worth every bit of work we put into it."

Arts Unlimited and the March special group performance assembly were other performances that the dancers participated in.

The groups' senior president Kelly Holub said, "Even though the group was new and still growing dance-wise, I thought we came out on top. Everyone got along well and were willing to work hard for the group."

Graphics a printing art class that's fun but education too

Nearly one-hundred and twenty students joined the graphics class. The three different classes, General Graphics, Graphics One and Graphics Two, are taught by Glenn Mueller. General Graphics, a one semester course, involved work on many small basic projects. Graphics One went into a deeper study that included use of the off-set press. The second year course, Graphics Two, included complicated projects with the use of the typesetter computer. The graphics classes also gave experience in developing and printing black and white film.

"The classes are always challenging, never boring," said Mueller. Sophomore Kim Shapiro said, "The class was full of friendly people, willing to help if someone was stuck. It was fun as well as educational."

Preschool students practice parenting

"Preschool Practicum is a good experience. I enjoy being with children and it's good practice," said Emily Begel, '86, when asked what the courses in child development were about.

Preschool Practicum classes were designed to let students observe the growth of children. The first class, Child Development, is a semester course that teaches the development of a baby after conception. The next class, Preschool Practicum, is working among the preschoolers and observing them and helping them grow. The last class, Parenting, involved the students, preschoolers and their parents, discussing the problems of being a parent.

Wanda Nolen, head of the courses, said, "The day was planned to foster development in the four major areas: social, emotional, intellectual, and physical."

The children must be over 15 months to be in the program. There were twelve in the morning preschool, five in the afternoon and ten in day care. The day care kids were usually the children of teachers.

In charge of the preschoolers were the preschool aids, Kyla Tipsword in the morning and Maureen Girardi in the afternoons.

Although students usually took the class to be with the kids and observe how they grew, one senior, Mary Hendricks, took the course because, "I have more serious plans about working with children and I plan on getting a degree to teach Kindergarten through eighth graders."

Auto prepares students for jobs in field

A great learning experience for high school students was auto class. Students learned how a car works and the theory and principles behind it.

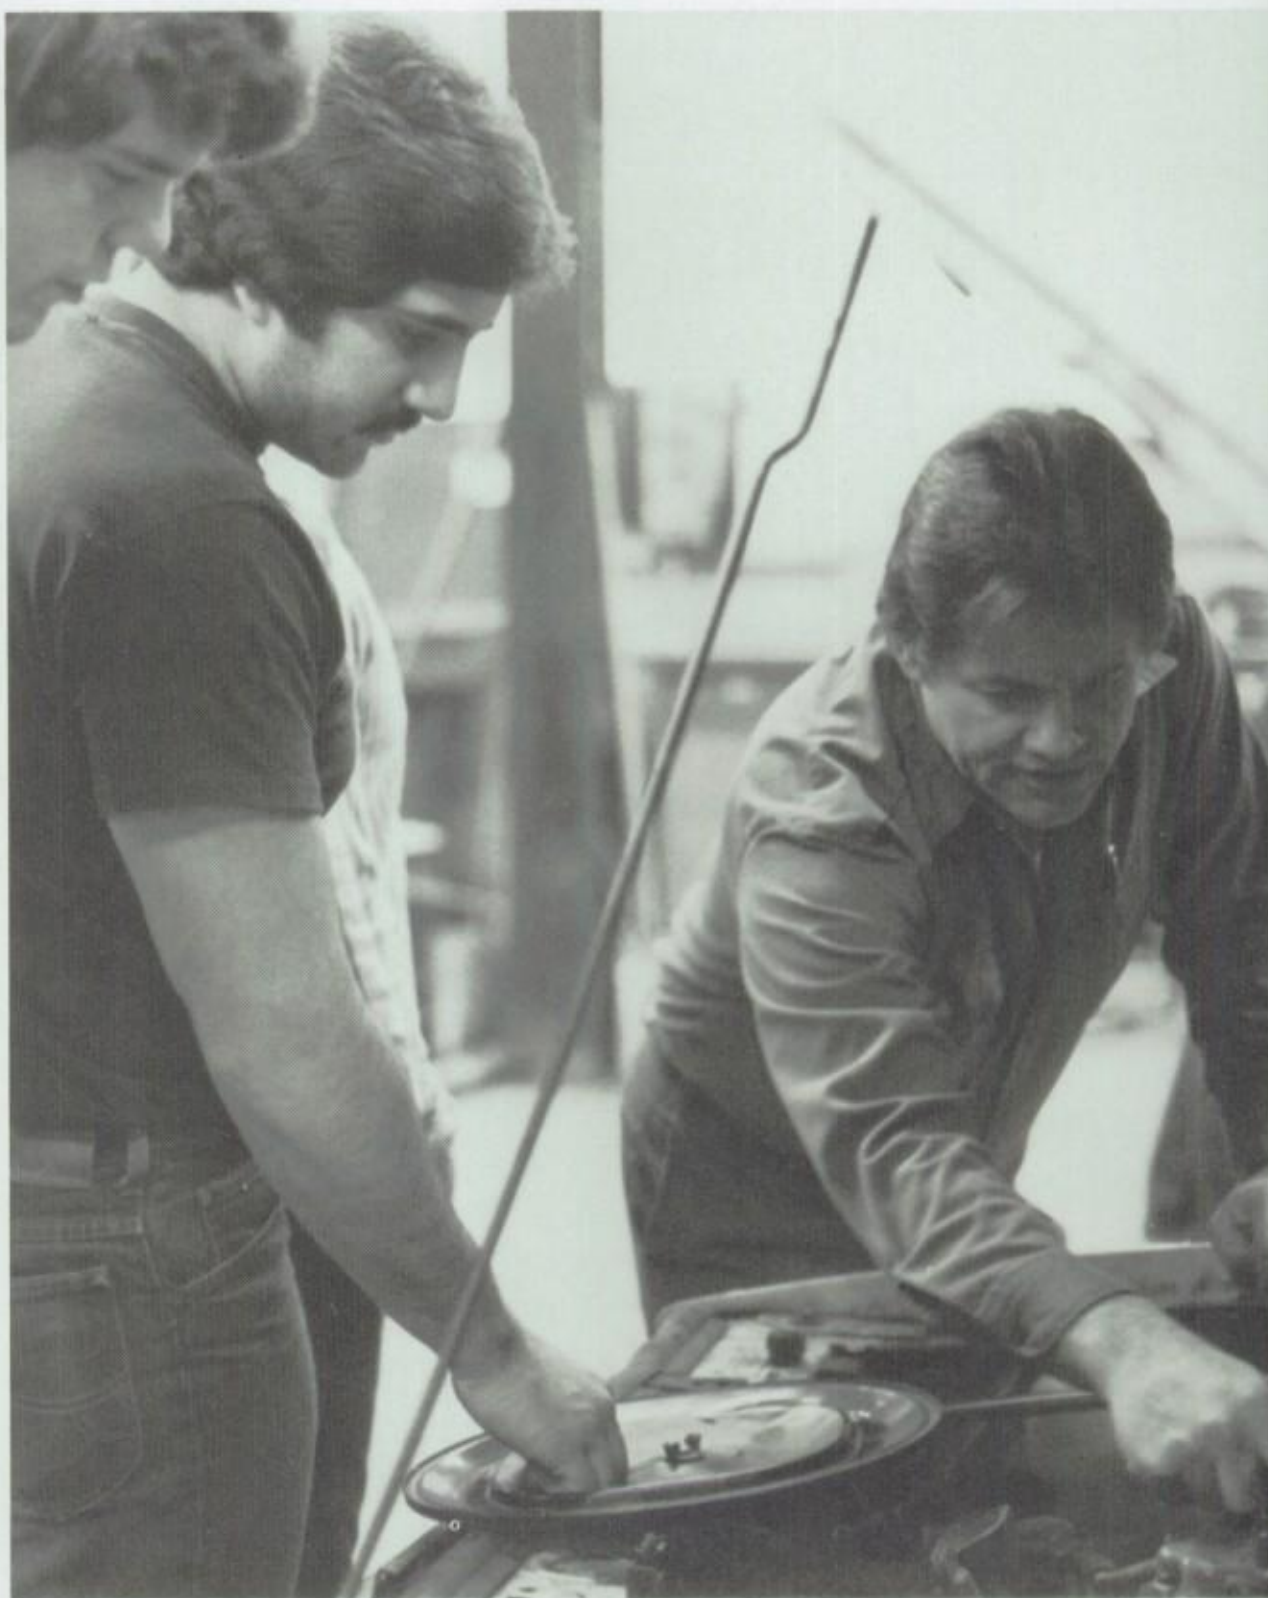

They learned about cars in a practical way, by the assembling and disassembling of components. They learned the problems of ownership and how to prevent misuse of a car.

This course was designed to allow students to explore and pursue career opportunity in the auto field. After high school some students attend junior college and technical school for further automotive training.

Sociology reveals sudden interests

Sociology is a class in which you can learn about cultures, beliefs, and values. Ninety percent of the seniors took the sociology class because they found it challenging. Most students know of the wedding as a big event, but the class held much more. There were the films on different cultures, a discussion on death, and learning how to budget your money just to name a few. Sociology had a variety of subjects so most students found that it was never boring.

Senior Deb Fishman said, "I took it this past summer and really enjoyed it. Attending a four hour a day summer school course for six weeks sounds as though it would be boring and involve a great deal of work. However, all thirty-five students really liked the way Mr. Fiegan presented the course." Senior Ellen O'Connor said, "I really liked the class; it made me think about my future."

Psychology understanding of behavior

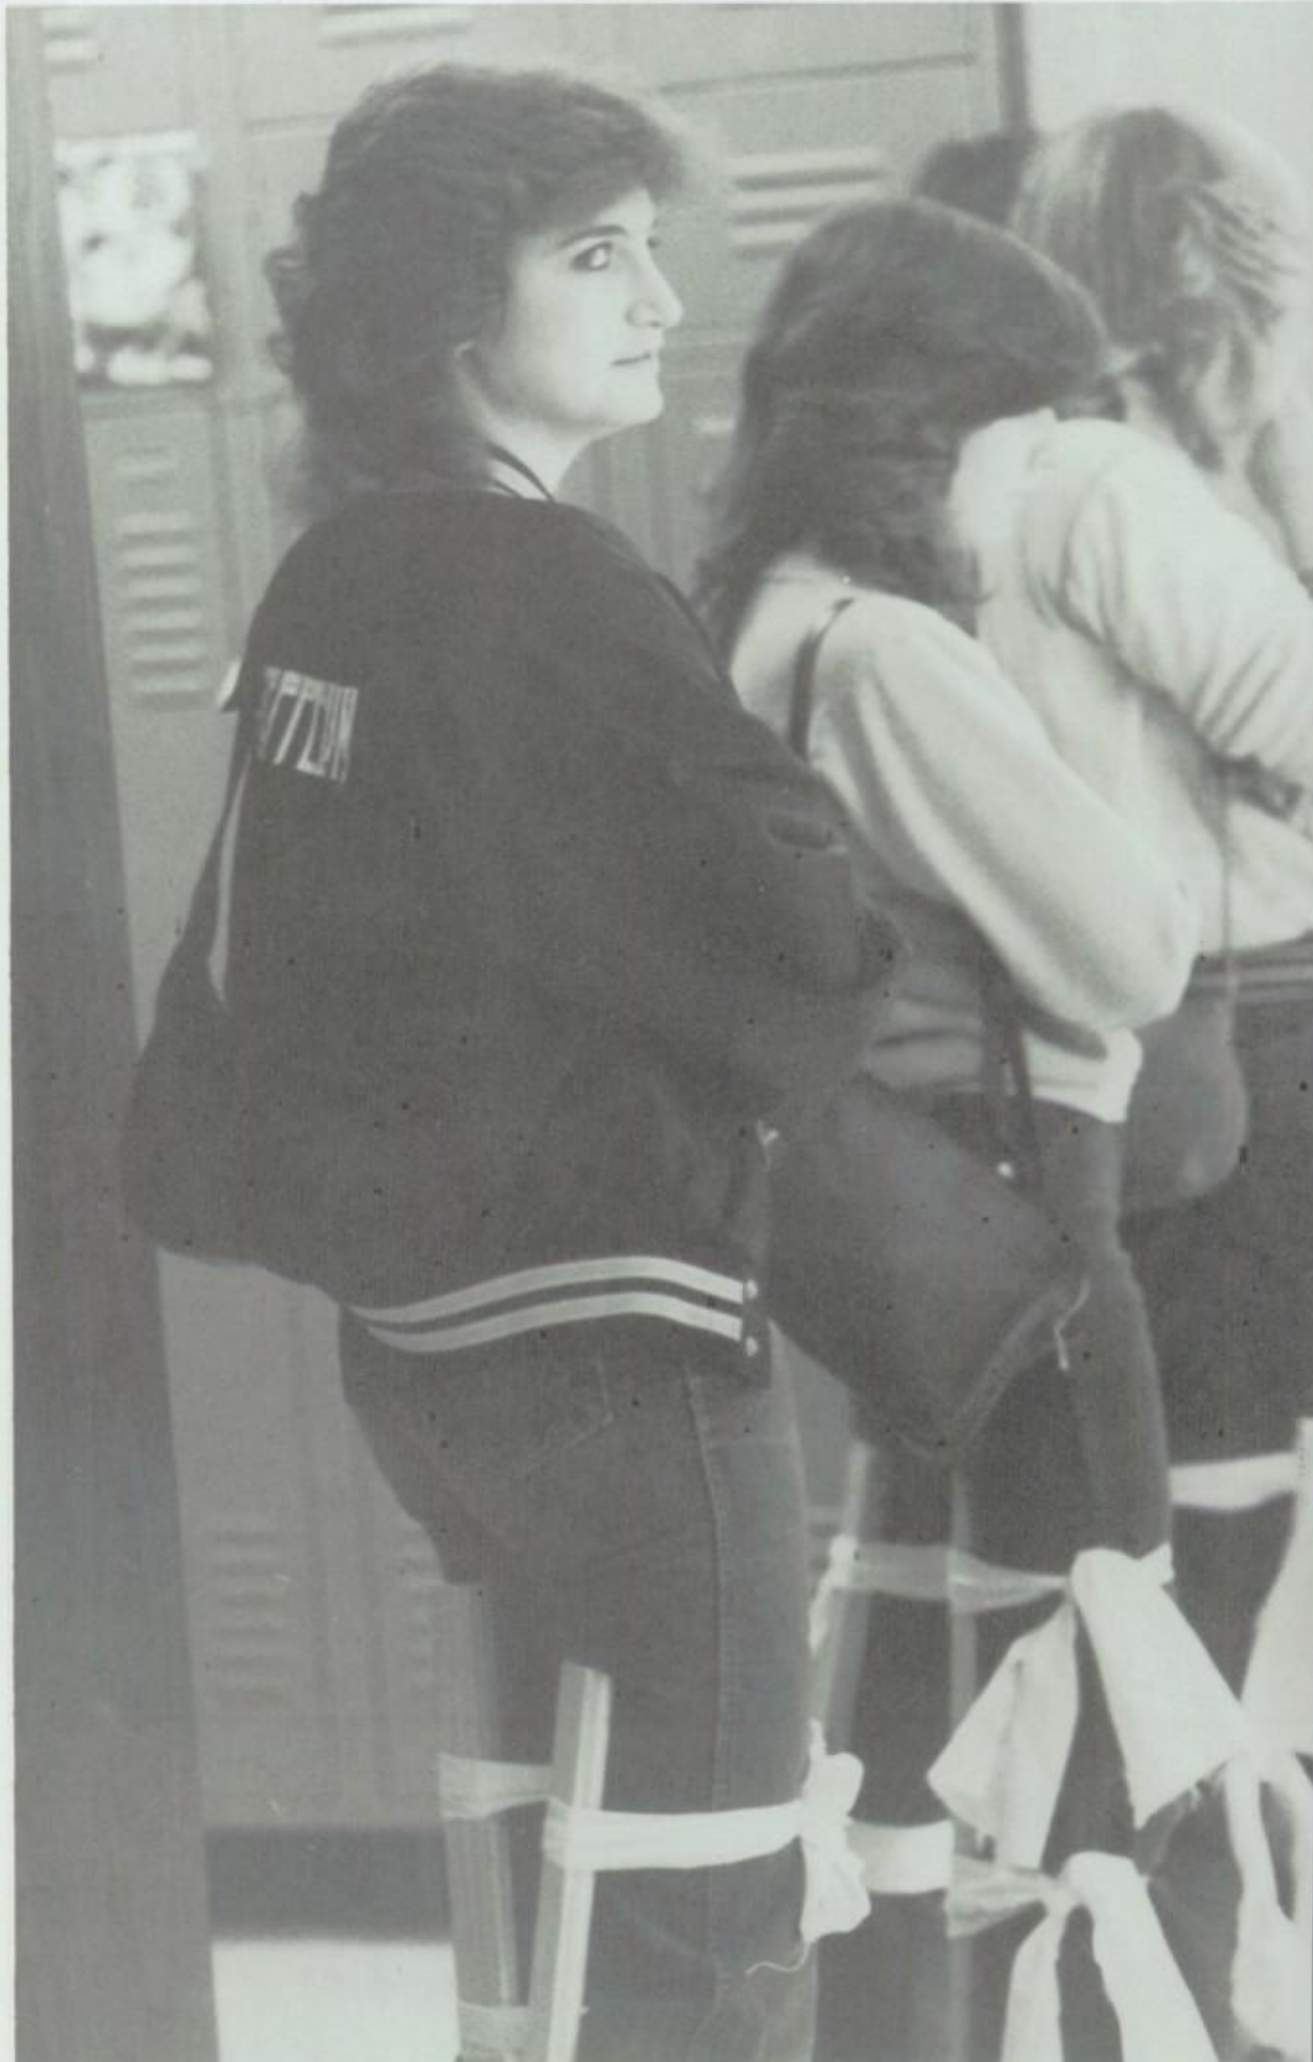

Psychology was the most sought after elective last year. According to students, psychology was fun as well as educational.

The class was composed of two semester courses. The first semester was called General Survey. The students learned the methodology of psychology, human behavior, and the human learning process. The second semester of Psychology dealt with abnormal behavior. Abnormal behavior focused on the teachings of Sigmund Freud, Eric Erickson, and other great thinkers. Also in the second semester, the students learned about the treatment of abnormal behavior.

"Psychology requires a great deal of experiments," said Dr. Charles Birch, the teacher. One of the experiments related to personal development, the development from cradle to grave. The personal experiment dealt with relating back to childhood and thinking through the mind of a child. Another experiment required students to deal with mental illness.

Dr. Birch summarized psychology as "People understanding people . . . trying to understand their behavior, both normal and abnormal . . . trying to understand the causes and symptoms for the abnormal behavior."

Psychology students learn what it is like to be handicapped.

Computer enrollment grows as more classes added

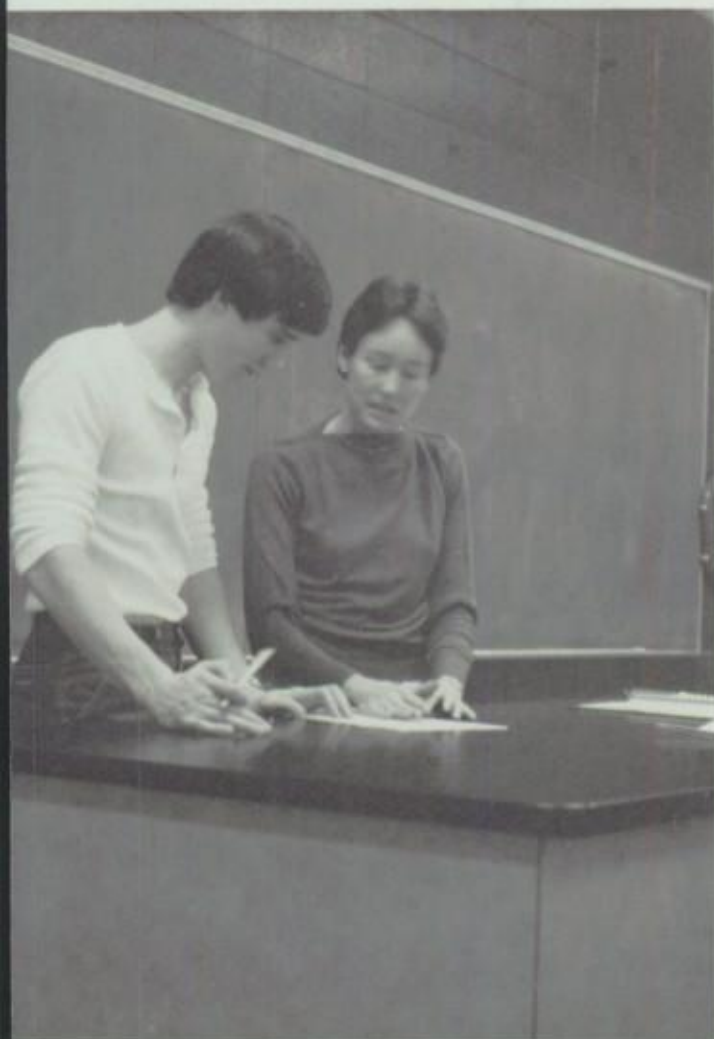

An increase in the number of students plagued the math and computer science department. Over 900 students were enrolled in computer classes, which ranged from "Introduction to Computers" to "Advanced Micro Topics." Division Head Bill Duncker said it will be necessary for freshmen to wait till their sophomore year before they can enroll in a computer course. Math, however, wasn't overrun with students, but more students were placed in each class to accommodate the lack of teaching space. Computer classes also followed this route.

According to computer teacher Chuck Gress, the 85-86 school year will see the addition of two computer classes and a second Corvus Unit. A twenty percent rise in enrollment for computer courses is also expected by Duncker.

The Math Club was introduced by John Gardner. Though the club started late in the school year, it did gain a few members. However, there were not enough for the club to enter the ICTM Contest, but they did manage to enter a few state contests.

Over eighty percent of the student body had a math course, twenty four percent of which were freshmen who were trying to fulfill their one year requirement. Duncker attributes the other fifty six percent to students planning to go to college. He briefly mentioned that the state will require two years of math.

Acting classes more than fun; it takes practice

To have poise . . . to have everything under control . . .

Besides learning to read a script and really see the characters, students in acting class learned to compose themselves in front of an audience. Composition takes concentration on one thing at a time. "In acting a person can't let his mind wander. It takes concentration," said sophomore Ilyse Friedman.

Some students had a little trouble getting up in front of an audience at first. To get over stage fright, a student would do simple exercises such as getting up, going to the front of the classroom and sitting on a chair, then returning to his seat. Students had to realize that stage fright is normal.

The students worked on several types of acting in class. They did mime, improvisational speeches and scenes from short and long plays.

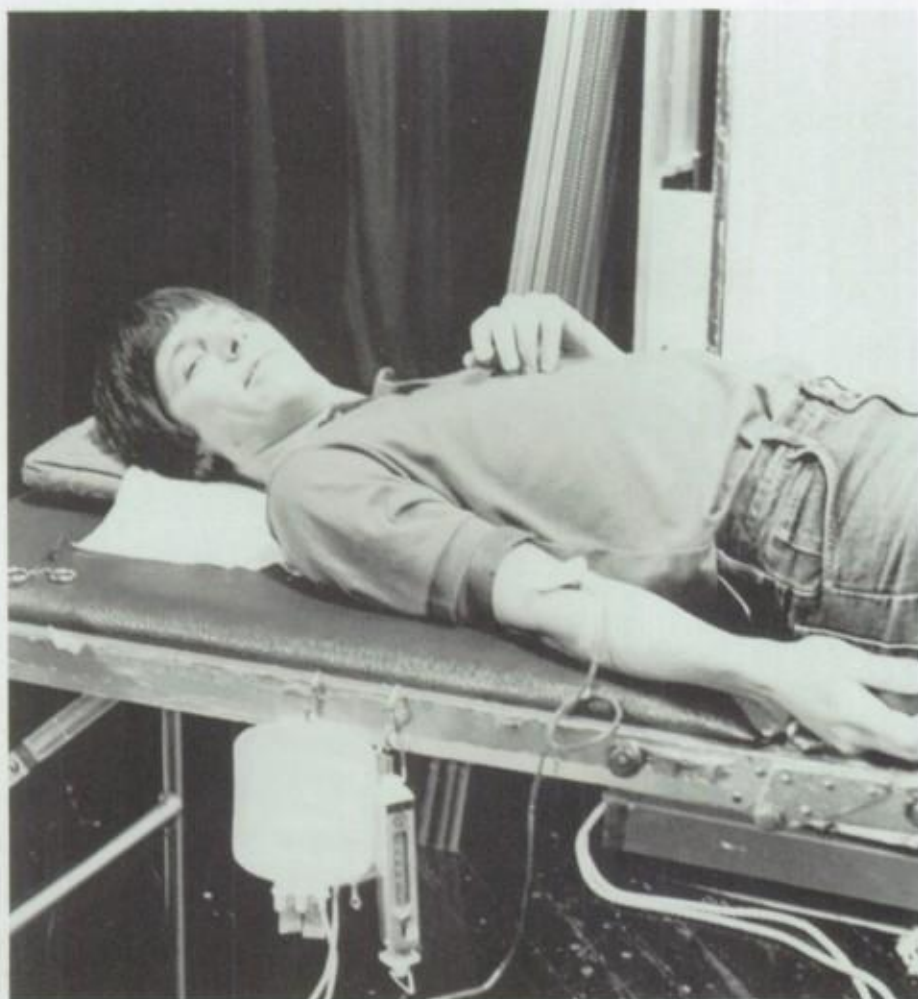

This year the students did a play for Arts Unlimited. They also went to see a mime, Marcel Marceau.

A lot of students take acting after they have been in plays or musicals. They gain an interest that they want to grow. "Acting is an important class for students to take because it gives a better understanding of other people," said sophomore Jane Jourdon. "It helps out with one on one and group communication."

Blood drive a success; SADD begins at BG

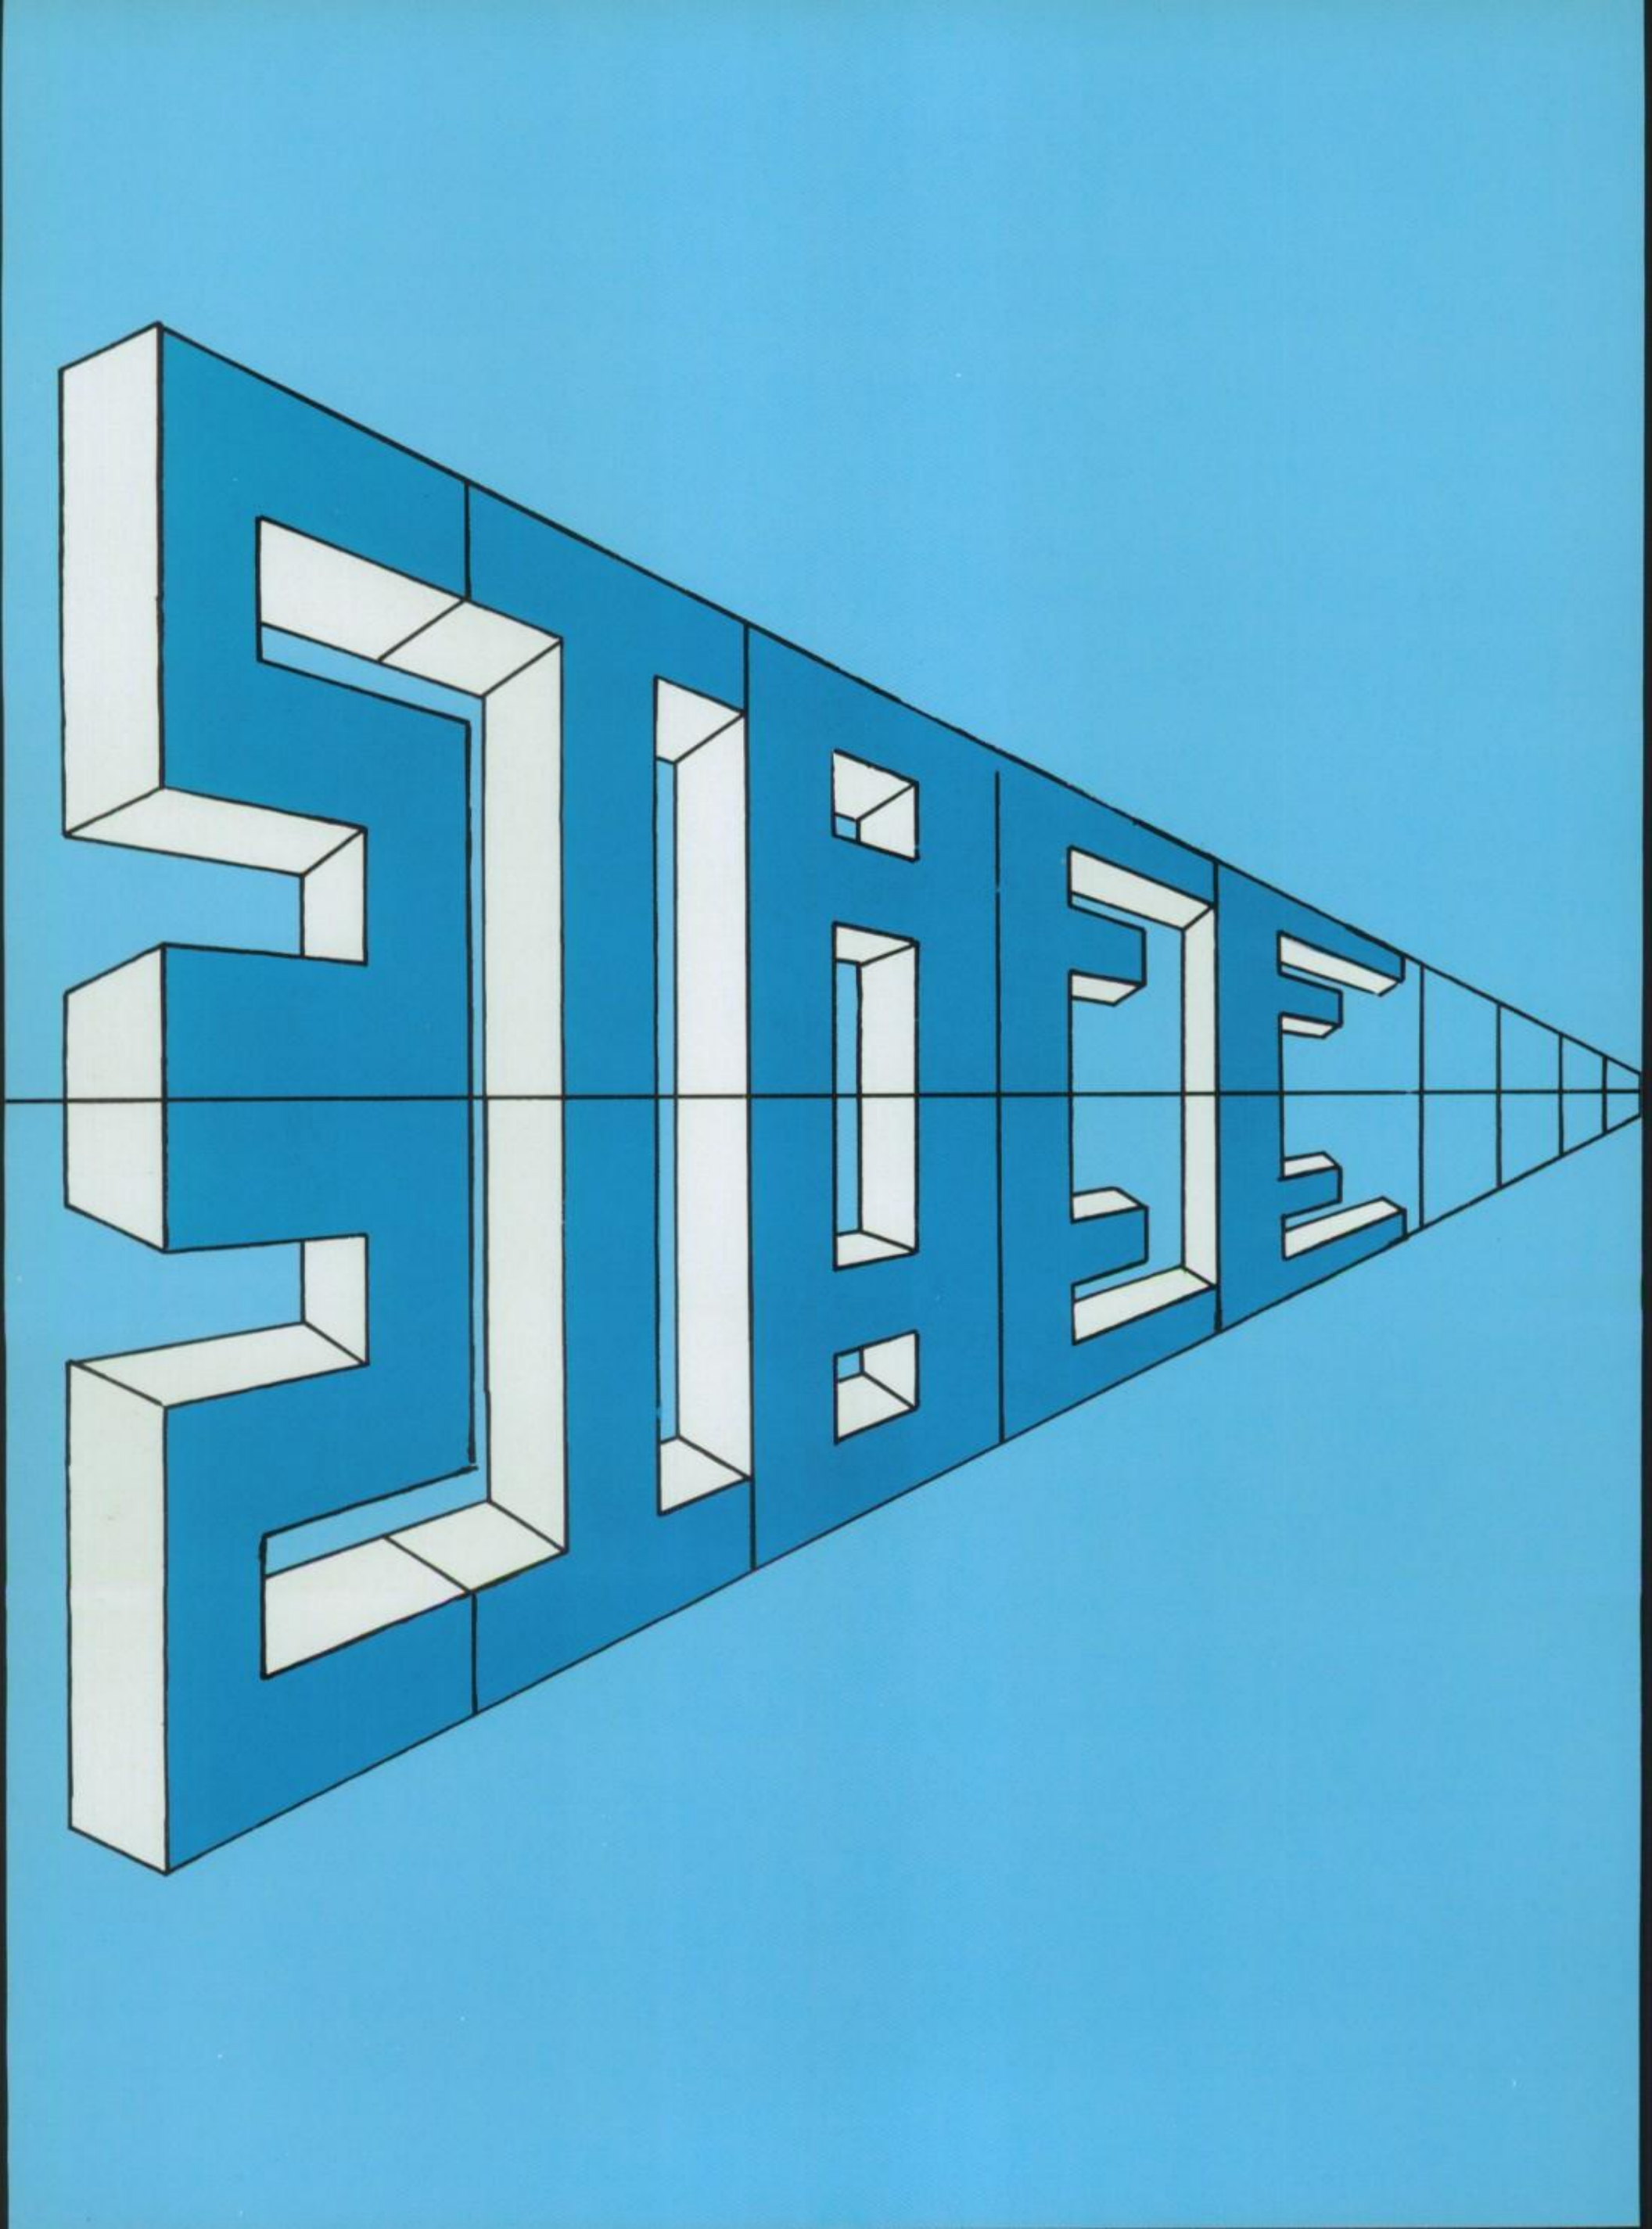

This year's blood drive was the most successful in the history of Buffalo Grove High School. Mr. Jim Conroy, the senior class sponsor, said, "This year we collected over 114 pints of blood . . . the most in the school's history." The blood is of significant value to the hospitals in the Northwest Suburbs, which use over 105 pints a day. Conroy added, "The students who donated blood are giving of themselves so that another life might live . . . this is a gift you can't buy." So if you ever need blood, remember the hero behind the scenes who gave the blood so that you could have the chance to keep living.

SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk) had a very successful first year. SADD was a group of BGHS students concerned about the dangers of driving drunk. Fred Van Iten, the sponsor, said, "Too many have suffered or died because of the unthinking actions of the drunk driver . . . the facts are clear that students are drinking, driving drunk, and dying drunk." Hersey was the first school in the district to begin a successful SADD program. Van Iten added, "We stress not drinking at all; however, if the student does drink, then the student shouldn't drive." As one of Buffalo Grove's debate cases stated the problem, "The drunk driver is the potential killer, and you and I are the potential victim."

In Memory of

Todd Hamilton

The senior class was decreased by one when an automobile accident took the life of Todd Hamilton. Todd, 17, died on August 29, 1983, after he lost control of his car on August 26. He was in a coma for three days.

Paul Becker, also a senior, was critically injured in the accident.

A memorial scholarship organized in Todd's memory will aid a male senior involved in woodworking or football.

Hamilton is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hamilton, and his brothers, Brad, a freshman, and two year old Joshua.

Todd will be missed dearly by his friends and family and it is in his memory that we dedicate this yearbook.

Editor's Statement

Throughout the long process of creating this yearbook, I have encountered the strong emotions of both pride and frustration. Pride over the accomplishments of my staff and the student body; and frustration over the hard work and incredibly long hours.

Dealing with these feelings, I have learned many things about myself and others. I am thankful for that chance.

I wish to express my gratitude to our advisor, Mr. Dale Dasonville, for all the patience and support he has given us this year. Without him, I doubt that you would be reading this now.

When looking through the pages of this book, I hope that you not only reflect on the good times at Buffalo Grove, but that you search deeper - past the flaws- and realize just how much hard work and dedication went into completing this yearbook.

Good luck to all in the future, and always remember: when you need a little cheering up, start at the beginning, and reflect once again on the fun times at B.G.H.S.

Best Wishes,
Dawn Romano
